£1.9m FUND TO PROTECT CHASE

By Marion Brennan

ALMOST £2 million has been set aside to protect Cannock Chase from the impact of more than 8,000 homes due to be built in the coming years.

The money will help to mitigate the potential damage to the area from thousands more visitors.

Cannock Chase Council leader George Adamson welcomed the move, warning the 26-square mile site was at risk of being over-used.

Cannock Chase is the smallest Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty in mainland Britain but despite its size contains a wide range of wildlife, including a herd of 800 fallow deer and a number of rare and endangered birds.

It was given its special status in 1958 to ensure nothing spoils the site.

The total cost of the protection programme amounts to £1.97m which will be divided between the surrounding local authorities in proportion to the number of homes each plans to build within a five-mile radius of the site over the next 15 years.

Visitor numbers at the Chase have soared with the creation of the Follow the Dog and Monkey Trail mountain bike trails a decade ago. It is also the venue for annual forest gigs which attract stars such as Paloma Faith and Robert Plant, who performed there last month.

Effects

Stafford Borough Council will take on the biggest burden of the costs – £1.14m – with 4,900 homes proposed.

Cannock Chase and Lichfield councils both plan to build around 1,700 houses, requiring a contribution of almost £400,000 from each.

South Staffordshire will also pay into the fund, and will be billed for £35,000 to mitigate the effects of building 150 homes.

Most of the money – £1.4m – will be spent on creating two new full-time posts, a project manager and visitor engagement officer.

A further £255,000 will go towards maintaining and improving the paths and tracks and building or extending the car park. Around £100,000 will pay for monitoring the site, including the cost of two aerial surveys and two visitor surveys.

Consultancy fees will eat up an estimated £135,000 as chiefs aim to put in place an overarching strategy for the Chase.

A sum of £30,000 will also be put aside to develop volunteering and educational programmes, and pay for promotional and interpretation material.

Although the five-mile zone includes the 8,495 homes due to be built before 2030, the costs also take into account a wider radius area of just over nine miles inside which 78,000 homes are expected to be constructed over the same time period.

Councillor Adamson said: "The Chase is so popular now that it is in danger of over-use."

MOTHER BACKS CAMPAIGN OVER DEADLY DISEASE

Charlotte and Stewart Heath with Aimee, who was born in July 2011 and is disabled from her group B Strep infection

A MOTHER whose newborn baby contracted meningitis has backed a campaign calling on the NHS to inform pregnant women about group B Strep and offer them a chance to be tested.

Group B Strep is the most common cause of life-threatening infection in newborn babies and of meningitis in babies up to the age of three months, passing from mother to baby around labour and birth.

The Why Guess? campaign, launched by charity Group B Strep Support, wants to stop health professionals having to guess whether a woman is carrying the potentially deadly group B Strep bacteria and start using the group B Strep-specific (ECM) test to detect carriage late in pregnancy.

Charlotte Heath, of Cheslyn Hay, is backing the campaign. The 26-year-old's daughter Aimee, who was born in July 2011, is seriously disabled from her GBS infection.

All appeared well until the morning after she was born when Aimee showed signs of distress. She was allowed home but her condition worsened and she was rushed to hospital for blood tests and a lumbar puncture. Aimee had developed group B Strep meningitis, but after three weeks of intensive care was allowed home. She now has spastic quadriplegia cerebral palsy because of the condition and cannot stand, walk, talk or sit up.

Her mother said: "Had I been tested for GBS and found positive, I could have been offered antibiotics in labour and Aimee's illness and disabilities would have been prevented."

CELEBRATION

Date announced for Staffordshire Day

THE first ever Staffordshire Day will be held on May 1 in 2016. The public have been voting for what historic date the inaugural celebration should be held on.

Towards the end of last week it looked as if July 5 – when the Staffordshire Hoard was discovered in 2009 – would top the poll. But a late surge of votes came in for May 1 to mark when Josiah Wedgwood & Sons was founded in Stoke in 1759.

The event is the brainchild of Destination Staffordshire, and it will coincide with the 1,000-year anniversary since the county was referred to as Staffordshire.

CHARITY

Parents to put on hospital fundraisers

TWO events are to be held at Etching Hill Primary School, Rugeley, in aid of Birmingham Children's Hospital.

The first, on Saturday, is a fun day for all the family with a host of different attractions, and the other is a dance/Zumba event on September 19.

Both events, which run from 10am to 2pm, have been organised by Tracey and Rob Lawford, whose son has been treated at the hospital since 2008 when he was diagnosed with a rare cancerous brain tumour.

CRIME

Probe after attack on Good Samaritan

A GOOD Samaritan was attacked while trying to help a man during a fight in Chasetown. Police were called to Queen Street just after 7.40pm on Sunday after reports that a man had suffered a head injury.

West Midlands Ambulance Service also attended, and the 46-year-old was taken to Walsall Manor Hospital. A member of the public who tried to help was also assaulted but did not require hospital treatment.

Staffordshire Police are now investigating. Force spokeswoman Faye Casey said: "Officers are now conducting inquires to establish exactly what happened." Anyone with information is urged to call 101.

Police cadet is shortlisted for award

Emily Williscroft

A Staffordshire Police cadet has been shortlisted for a national Lord Ferrers Award which recognises outstanding contributions to volunteering in policing.

Emily Williscroft, a cadet at the Cannock unit, was put forward for the Volunteer Police Cadet Individual Award for her outstanding work on educating other cadets on Female Genital Mutilation (FGM). She will find out if she has won at a special dinner on 9 September.

FGM, sometimes called female circumcision, involves the partial or total removal of the external female genital organs for non-medical reasons. It usually happens between the ages of four and ten and can have serious consequences for a woman's health and in some instances lead to death.

Deputy Police and Crime Commissioner Sue Arnold said: "Staffordshire should be extremely proud of Emily for being nominated for the award, as I am.

"She has shown excellent confidence and hard work toward educating the other cadets about FGM.

"Around 24,000 girls are at risk of FGM across the UK which means that this is a problem that cannot be ignored in Staffordshire and Stoke-on-Trent."

Emily said: "I was nominated for the award by the Deputy Chief Officer, Graham Smout, for all of my work regarding FGM. I have been a Staffordshire Police Cadet for two years in October and have worked my way up to section leader.

"Since the start of this year, I have been visiting other cadet units and making them aware of what FGM is, the side effects and what signs to spot.

"I'm very grateful that my hard work has finally paid off and I feel very honoured to be shortlisted."

Disabled man groomed 11-year-old via Xbox

A disabled father who groomed a young girl through a gaming console before getting her to send nude pictures has been jailed for three-and-a-half years.

Jamie Dibble, who suffers from cerebral palsy, struck up a friendship with the 11-year-old girl over their Xbox game machines, Stafford Crown Court heard.

But then Dibble turned the friendship into a sexual one, asking her to carry out sexual acts on herself and sending each other intimate photographs, prosecutor Mr David Bennett said.

He said although they never actually met, there was a lengthy period of contact not only over Xbox, but also via mobile phone messaging, Skype and Facebook.

The illicit relationship came to light when the girl's brother told their mother that his sister had been seeing a17-year-old, Mr Bennett said.

The parents were very concerned about what had been happening and their daughter was at first evasive until her mobile phone was examined.

Dibble, aged 24, of Lime Road, Cannock admitted inciting a child to sexual activity, making indecent photos of a child, causing a child to view indecent photos and possessing indecent photos.

Mr Neil Gerrity, defending, said Dibble suffered from cerebral palsy and struggled to make friends and form relationships.

The court was told he had feelings of isolation and loneliness and found it easier to interact over the internet.

Mr Gerrity said: "He never actually saw [the girl] and they never actually met. There was talk of a meeting, but it never happened."

Sentencing Dibble, Judge Mark Eades told him: "You are an adult, a father of a child, you know perfectly well what an adult relationship is like, but you chose, online, to indulge in a relationship with an 11-year-old girl.

"You knew it was wrong, you did it for your own titillation. "This was not a one-off isolated offence."

He also ordered Dibble to be registered as a sex offender for life. He will be banned from working with children for life and is subject to a sexual harm prevention order.

Evicted travellers move to site nearby

Travellers set up camp on land off John Street, Cannock after leaving nearby Hawks Green Business Park

TRAVELLERS who were evicted from land in Cannock pitched up on a playing field less than two miles away.

The illegal camp was set up on land between Cannock Road and John Street near The Nest pub on Thursday at 5.45pm with around half a dozen caravans and vehicles.

The group had moved from the nearby Hawks Green Business Park following a court order on the same day.

Staffordshire Police said officers had 'engaged with the travellers' and were conducting routine patrols in the area.

The county has seen a spate of travellers set up on council-owned car parks and a beauty spot in Stafford.

More than a dozen caravans moved onto land near Milford Common next to the entrance to Shugborough Hall.

Councillors are now calling for tougher action to be taken including the introduction of barriers at targeted sites. The travellers set up the same day a group were moved off the long-stay Doxey Road car parks, having also pitched up there in February.

In the past month alone across Staffordshire and the Black County, travellers have moved onto a country park in Willenhall, open space in Wednesfield, park land in West Bromwich, playing fields in Walsall, a conservation site in Wolverhampton and land in Walsall Wood.

I'm lucky to be alive says street stab victim, 29

A MAN was left needing four stitches after being stabbed in a late-night attack in Hednesford.

The assault happened at the south end of Market Street at 12.20am on Sunday. The 29-year-old victim suffered a puncture wound to the side of his stomach.

Staffordshire Police say two men pulled up in a car and attacked him and his friends with a baseball bat and a bladed weapon. Officers, who have launched an appeal for witnesses, have since arrested two suspects.

The victim, who did not want to be named, received treatment at New Cross Hospital in Wolverhampton. He was discharged after three hours and was back at work on Monday.

He said: "I am just shocked about what happened. It has affected me physically and mentally. It has affected all of us. This is usually a really nice place.

"I am lucky to be alive but I am glad it was me and not one of my friends.

"But I just hope everyone else recovers mentally from it. I am worried about the affect it has had on my mates." The other two men suffered minor injuries.

Police arrested a 28-year-old man from Hednesford and a 36-year-old man from Norton Canes on suspicion of causing grievous bodily harm with intent. Both have been released on police bail while officers carry out further inquiries.

West Midlands Ambulance Service sent a rapid response vehicle, ambulance and a paramedic officer to the scene who treated the man for his wound before taking him to New Cross.

Pensioner trapped after cars collide

A PENSIONER was trapped in his car for more than half an hour after a two-vehicle collision.

The man, who is in his 80s, was cut free following the crash, which happened on the A5 between Gailey Island and Weston, near The Bell Inn, at 7.20am on Sunday. He was treated for chest and back injuries, not believed to be life-threatening, and airlifted to Royal Stoke University Hospital.

A man in his 20s freed himself from the second car. He had minor injuries and was taken to Walsall Manor Hospital as a precaution.

Ambulance service spokesman Jamie Arrowsmith said: "Crews arrived to find two cars that had been involved in a collision, both of which had suffered significant front end damage."

Display will focus on law and order

THE Landor Society local history group's 2015 display 'Law and Order' will be on show at Brewery Street Shopping Centre, Rugeley, on August 15.

Copies of John Godwin's 'Murder of Christina Collins on the Trent and Mersey Canal' will also be on sale.

Combined vaccine to be offered to students

STUDENTS across Staffordshire are to be offered a combined meningitis vaccine as part of a new county-wide immunisation programme launched this month.

The MenACWY vaccine, which protects against the A,C, W and Y strains, will be offered to all 17 and 18-year-olds in Year 13 – targeting those heading offer to university in particular.

The vaccine will also be available to older students aged 19 to 25 who are starting university this year.

From spring 2016 there will also be a school-based vaccination programme for MenACWY, which will replace the MenC-only vaccine that is currently offered to Years 9 and 10. There will also be a catch-up programme for those in Year 11

Mark Sutton, Staffordshire County Council's cabinet support member for social and health care, encouraged people to take up the offer of the new combined vaccine this summer.

"Meningitis can be an extremely serious disease, so I would encourage parents to ensure their teenage sons and daughters take up the offer of this simple combined single jab, which will help protect them against four potentially deadly strains of the disease," he said.

From September, parents of babies aged two months will be offered the chance to have their child given the MenB vaccine, which protects against meningococcal B disease, followed by a second dose at four months and a booster at 12 months as part of the childhood vaccination programme.

Prisoner threw urine on officer

AN inmate who threw urine over a prison officer at HMP Oakwood will serve four more months behind bars.

Nathan Downes from Stoke pleaded guilty to assaulting the female worker at the jail in Featherstone. Downes, who was serving two years for burglary, had been due to be released from the G4S-run prison in October.

At Cannock Magistrates Court, an 18-week sentence was added onto the time he is already serving.

The 32-year-old will also have to pay £430 in fines and costs upon his release. He appeared via a video-link after being transferred to Winson Green. Mr Stephen Lee, defending, said he owed money to fellow inmates for tobacco and was being bullied. The assault was to 'settle the debt'.

Heirlooms to be valued for free

FAMILY heirlooms and other collectables will be valued free of charge at a valuation day in Staffordshire.

The event is at the Holiday Inn Express, in Birmingham Road, Shenstone, on August 14, 10am to 2pm.

Family's tribute to tragic motorcyclist

Michael Nock – 'devoted'

THE family of a motorcyclist who died in a crash have paid tribute to a 'devoted father, loving husband, caring son and valued member of the local community'.

Michael Nock was one of two riders killed as a result of a head-on collision on the A5 last Wednesday morning.

Mr Nock, aghed 44, from Featherstone, was riding a red BMW when it collided with a blue and white Suziki ridden by David Harvey Smith, 49, of Cannock.

Both men were pronounced dead at the scene, and a woman who witnessed the crash from a van was treated for shock. The grieving family of Mr Knock revealed their devastation in a statement, which reads: "Michael was a devoted father, loving husband, caring son and valued member of the local community.

"His loss is devastating to those who love him. As his family we would like to thank people for their ongoing support.

"We now request that we are given the time we need to grieve."

Meanwhile, the family of Mr Smith released a statement expressing their sadness at the loss of the 'beloved father, partner, grandfather and friend'.

Their statement also spoke of their gratitude for the support they had received from relatives and friends. Following the crash, a seven-mile stretch of the A5 was closed between Weston-under-Lizard and Gailey, while a detailed examination of the scene took place. The A41 was also closed.

Staffordshire Police spokesperson Faye Casey said police are still looking into what happened and appealed for witnesses to come forward. She said: "An investigation into the circumstances of exactly what happened is ongoing and we are appealing for witnesses to the collision to contact Staffordshire Police on 101 quoting incident 189 of July 29."

Councils' £750k pledge to help combat floods

A TOTAL of £750,000 has been pledged from two councils for flood defences in Rugeley to protect more than 100 homes and businesses.

The flood-prone town is the subject of a scheme which will see a 1,100ft-long and 9ft-high embankment along Western Springs Road to safeguard buildings.

The project, which will cost up to £2 million, has been backed by a £1.29m provisional allocation from the Government's Local Growth Fund.

Now Staffordshire County Council and Cannock Chase Council have each committed to investing £375,000 in the scheme in the event of the growth funding not being available on schedule.

The money will also support transport and access improvements. When completed, it will mean business, leisure and housing developments can take place in previously avoided areas. Around 140 new homes will be built.

The scheme will also attract new enterprise to the town leading to the creation or safeguarding of 330 jobs. The Environment Agency has said it will contribute cash to the project.

Secured

County councillor Mark Winnington, cabinet member for the environment, said: "The flood defence scheme is vital for Rugeley's future regeneration and growth. Development that has been held back because of flood risk will be now able to happen. It will build confidence in investors and developers with that risk removed and will mean the town can really move forward.

"It was great news that we secured the Growth Deal allocation towards the scheme – however, we are fully committed to the project and do not want to see any significant delays.

"There's no reason why the scheme will not receive the allocation on time but with any major scheme we need to ensure there is detailed planning, including an alternative option for funding. Together with Cannock Chase Council, we want to unlock Rugeley's future potential as soon as possible."

Cannock's economic development leader Gordon Alcott said: "We fully support a scheme that will improve the town centre and create hundreds of new jobs. This is all part of our ongoing policy of improving our town centres."

Work on the scheme is expected to start next year. The embankment will border Hagley playing fields, which will be out of use for six months.

Neil Redpath, aged 35, has set himself cycle challenges to raise money for the Anthony Nolan Trust, inspired by a bone marrow transplant he had

Neil sets himself charity targets

A health manager who overcame acute blood cancer as a teenager has set himself challenges to raise cash for the charity that gave him new life.

Neil Redpath, from Rugeley, wants to raise at least £2,015 for the Anthony Nolan Trust to mark the 20th anniversary of his bone marrow transplant.

The 35-year-old has already completed two of the four physical tasks he set himself, an 81-mile bike ride and a 95-mile walk, which he did in May in his native Scotland.

He has already raised more than £1,000 for the charity and hopes to double it by the end of the year.

Mr Redpath, of Fairmount Way, was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukaemia in October 1994 when he went from a regular on the rugby field to struggling to complete daily tasks.

The family was put in touch with the Anthony Nolan Trust and he went on a register to find a bone marrow donor after his relatives were found to be unsuitable matches. He received a successful transplant on May 25, 1995.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

I'VE just found a website which calculates how long you have been alive – in my case, at the moment of writing, 2,026,425,600 seconds. Funny, it feels less.

WHAT is it with all these beards? The fashion for facial fungus is infesting the upper lips and chins of young men everywhere. Are beards the new tattoos?

THERE is a theory that beards become fashionable at times when men feel threatened by women or by change in general. They were almost compulsory in Victorian England when there was a woman on the throne and the rise of business corporations made individuals feel less important. Perhaps the rise of feminism accounts for today's crop of beards. Unless, of course, beard-wearers are part of that generation which has gone to university but learned very little and is now eager to appear intellectual. A beard may suggest brainpower where there is actually none. As the critic A A Gill put it perfectly: "I've never been convinced that facial hair is an alternative to thought."

THE Lord Sewel coke 'n' hookers scandal has inevitably brought calls for the House of Lords in all its portly, ermine-trimmed magnificence, to be reduced, reformed or possibly dynamited. It ain't going to happen. There are only two organisations that could vote the Lords out of existence. The first is the Lords themselves, which would be like turkeys voting for Christmas, but with extra stuffing. The second is the House of Commons. But Members of Parliament regard the Lords as a delightful place to spend their post-MP years, so they are hardly going to get rid of the best club in town, are they?

"I HOPE my decision will limit and help repair the damage I have done to an institution I hold dear," declares Lord Sewel's resignation statement. The institution in question appears to be the House of Lords. Not marriage, then?

Relaunched chemists look for heroes

THE Co-operative Pharmacy branches in Cannock are to be relaunched following change of ownership – and will rebrand with the new name Well.

The changes apply to pharmacies, located at Bideford Way, Hednesford Street, Pye Green Road, all Cannock, and Brownhills Road, Norton Canes.

The local pharmacies will begin adopting the new Well signage over the next few weeks – and the company is asking locals to nominate local unsung heroes who will be invited as VIP guests of honour to the official opening.

In total, 780 pharmacies in the UK will change from The Co-operative Pharmacy and become Well, following Bestway Group's £620million acquisition in October last year.

Well pharmacies are here to save customers trips to their GP, local hospital A&E or help them make healthy lifestyle changes.

Following the takeover, Well is now the UK's largest independent pharmacy chain and the investment in Cannock is part of a five-year, £200million programme.

Matt Gabbitas, regional manager for Well in Cannock said: .

"We recognise that many of our customers are tireless in their efforts to support the community, which is why we want to celebrate their work and invite an unsung hero to our grand opening."

You can make a nomination by email to wellheroes@havasww.com or by post, to Well Heroes, c/o Havas PR, 52 Princess Street, Manchester M1 6JX.

The closing date is August 25.

New £90k junction for Asda blackspot

By Carl Jackson

A NEW junction will be built at the entrance to Cannock's 24-hour Asda store in a bid to improve safety after five crashes in a year.

The accident blackspot in Avon Road has cost public services about half a million pounds to deal with the incidents last year.

Independent website crashmap.co.uk has also recorded 15 collisions at the spot during the period including a 'serious' incident in December 2013 which saw four people injured, including a child.

It has prompted action from Staffordshire County Council, which says six weeks of improvement works will start from September 28.

The scheme, funded by the council, will cost £90,000.

It will include widening a stretch of the Avon Road to create a dedicated right turn lane into Asda as well as right turn only signal giving priority to store visitors.

Councillor George Adamson, leader of Cannock Chase Council, welcomed the news of the work.

Welcome

"That junction has been dire ever since Asda opened so this is a long overdue improvement," he said.

"It is a difficult junction which was very poorly designed in the first place.

"This is the only scheme for Cannock Chase in the county council's capital improvements programme and it is a welcome one.

"It will prevent one accident causing injury a year so as well as saving lives and saving injuries it will also save public cash."

County Councillor Mark Deaville, chief for highways and transport, said: "Staffordshire has some of the safest roads in the country, and we continue to work with our partners to address any areas of concern."

Bosses calculate that crashes causing a personal injury can cost taxpayers around £130,000 due to the resources needed from police and the NHS as well as further costs incurred for work absence.

Gym is hoping to become legend

Brian Norbury, Reena Sahota, Mark Pugh, Ryan Norbury and Jodie Bradbury at Legends Gym

WHEN Reena Sahota and Brian Norbury decided to open a gym, they knew they needed to provide something no other gym had.

Instead of focussing purely on the hardcore bodybuilding crowd, they wanted to create an environment that was welcoming to everybody.

Now their dream has come true, with the opening of Legends Gym in Waterside Business Park, Rugeley.

Reena, aged 42, from Rugeley, said: "We want to look after our members.

"We wanted somewhere where people could relax.

"We wanted to be clean and creative. It's not daunting for people, we've made it very homely.

"The feedback that we've had from everybody has been amazing. It's totally different. It's what Rugeley wanted and now Rugeley has it."

"It's very inviting and comfortable," Reena said.

Monthly membership is £25, but day passes are available for £3.50.

The club also has personal trainers, with sessions starting from £10.

Reena said their ultimate goal include opening other gyms, but for now the focus is squarely on providing the best for their new members.

"We've already been very successful. There was a queue of people waiting when we opened," she added.

"I was up at 2am for the opening – I was that excited. I never knew I could love getting up for work."

Families set to step into a wartime experience

'STEPPING into Wartime' – a wartime experience event – is being held in Hednesford Park next week to commemorate the centenary of the First World War.

Last year marked the centenary of the start of the Great War, and over the last 12 months a number of events have taken place locally to remember the huge sacrifices made by men and women across Cannock Chase.

The next event, 'Stepping into Wartime', will take place in Hednesford Park on Tuesday from midday to 3pm.

The event consists of two elements. The first will be a military march forming part of the Chase It scheme. Children will arrive at Marquis Drive where they will sign up to their regiment and be issued with a uniform and a 'military mission'. They will then march to Hednesford Park.

The second element is a community event in Hednesford Park from midday which will provide a wartime experience for families. Activities include traditional games, arts and crafts, orienteering, a fun fair, and an army assault course.

To support the 'Stepping into Wartime' event, The Friends of Hednesford Park will also be walking from Hednesford Park to Marquis Drive from 9am. This walk will commemorate the journey which new recruits undertook when they got of the train at the bottom of Kitbag Hill. Volunteers, Air Corp Cadets and Army Cadets will be taking part.

To join the walk, call Lynn Evans on 07855 099353.

Dealer, 20, locked up after police find drugs

A SMALL-TIME drug dealer from Hednesford caught peddling cannabis has been locked up for eight months.

Police discovered a haul of cannabis for sale, and a bag of cocaine, at the home of Sheldon Hudson.

The officers had gone to the house to arrest Hudson on another matter but found the drugs in his bedroom, Stafford Crown Court heard.

Mr David Bennett, prosecuting, said there was a bag containing cannabis with a street value of around £120, another bag containing £10 worth, £140 in cash, notes relating to drug deals, plastic bags and a mobile phone featuring text messages relating to supplying cannabis.

There was also a bag containing £80 worth of cocaine for the defendant's own personal use.

Hudson, aged 20, of Rowley Close, admitted possessing drugs with intent to supply and possessing cocaine and was sent to young offenders' custody. In a basis of plea he said he had been selling cannabis to friends for a small profit to support his own drug habit.

The court heard that at the time he was dealing drugs, the defendant was subject to a community order for a previous unrelated offence.

Judge Mark Eades told him: "You were cocking a snook at the order. You had been warned that if you breached it you could be re-punished, but the matter doesn't stop there – your performance on the order was poor."

Mr Mark Nicholls, defending, said Hudson was now committed to changing his ways.

Public urged to test police force

People in Cannock Chase have been urged to sign up to a scheme to test how Staffordshire Police handles inquiries. Participants taking up the 'mystery shopper' role will make fake calls to non-emergency number 101, visit police offices to ask questions and use the force's website to find information before providing feedback.

Staffordshire Police and Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis declared more people were needed in the Cannock area for the scheme which has been running for several months throughout the county.

He said: "This is about testing the police on behalf of the public to raise standards, in policing and make sure people get a high-quality service.

Asbestos blaze farmer must now pay £25k

A MAN who illegally burned asbestos sheets and a dead pig among other waste materials on his farm in Slitting Mill near Rugeley has racked up a £25,000 bill for breaking pollution laws.

Dennis Ward was ordered to leave the courtroom at one point after losing his temper while being sentenced. In one outburst he clenched his fists and yelled 'I am not a liar' before being ejected.

He was fined £13,860 for his latest environmental offences and ordered to pay a further £3,360 in court costs, as well as an additional £120 victim surcharge. The penalties imposed at at Cannock Magistrates Court were added to the £7,955 the 76-year-old still owes after being convicted for similar offences in 2011.

Amy Jacobs, prosecuting on behalf of Cannock Chase Council, said two council officials attended Ward's Oak Tree Farm premises on June 2 last year following complaints. They discovered he had burned asbestos sheets, fluorescent tubes, tins and glass. He claimed he did not know about the asbestos sheets and fluorescent tubes because a traveller had dumped them there under other materials.

Burning

On November 3, council officials noticed a large fire on the same site after driving passed and visited the property again, this time with the fire brigade. On this occasion they found the remains of tree cuttings, wooden posts and planks. A roll of carpet was among the debris but Ward denied putting it there, saying he had placed it to one side.

Firefighters and council officers attended again on March 3 and discovered him burning cans, plastic boards, wires, springs and a pig carcass.

Ward said the farm was a smallholding with around 160 pigs but added he did not know how the animal got among the rubbish.

He admitted five breaches under the Environmental Protection Act – two charges of depositing controlled waste and three counts of disposing of it without a legal permit.

Ward, who was not represented in court, said: "One or two have given me money to get rid of rubbish but I have refused it, only for them to throw it back in my pocket. So I am as guilty as charged. I have had money."

Chairman of the bench Keith Colson said: "These offences are extremely serious and the decision of the bench is that there will be fines."

The council has applied for a criminal behaviour order against Ward to stop him burning any material on his land. The application will be determined at the same court tomorrow.

Dennis Ward, who was caught burning asbestos sheets, has a £25,000 court bill to pay

Pubs losing out as big companies set up shop

WHEN John Pickup saved his local pub near Bridgnorth, he had a simple rationale for his efforts: "If we didn't do something, we would have ceased to be a village, we would have become just a collection of houses."

Our community pubs are the fabric of British society, the glue that binds our towns and villages together.

And according to the Campaign for Real Ale, pubs in the West Midlands are still closing at the rate of around six a week.

Now I'm not one of those diehards who believe it is a tragedy whenever a pub shuts its doors.

Let's be honest, while we may have lost many excellent pubs over the past 10 year or so, but we have already lost some pretty dreadful ones.

You know the sort I mean, the nondescript boozers, often staffed by a succession of short-term managers, the sort that specialise in stale cobs, bland lager, and an occasional knuckle sandwich just after last orders. Should we really mourn their passing?

But the sad thing is that, as the economy picks up, it is not just the failing pubs which are under threat, but the thriving, popular ones too.

The Seven Stars in Sedgley and the Hasbury Inn in Halesowen are both popular, well-frequented pubs in pleasant, close-knit communities.

They are not at risk of closure because they struggle to pull in the punters, but simply because the sites they occupy are more valuable to the supermarket giants.

The battle over the Seven Stars seems to have been rumbling on for years. The local authority refused planning permission, so the Morrison's simply got the decision overturned by Whitehall, just 10 years after being told to relinquish its supermarket in the village centre by the Monopolies Commission.

So much for localism and devolution.

And there will then be tough times indeed for the long-established independent convenience stores in the two neighbouring roads. Look, I'm all for free enterprise, but something isn't working when thriving small businesses are just brushed aside like this.

Vital decision that can transform lives

With numbers falling, JACK AVERTY reports on the importance of leaving a life-changing legacy – donating an organ

"DONATING an organ is the best legacy you can leave behind as in death you will create life for someone else."

That is the view of Brownhills resident Nathan Black who is currently on the 6,000 strong waiting list for a kidney transplant.

Mr Black's emotional statement comes as recent figures revealed that 181 West Midlands residents have died in the past five years waiting for a transplant, whilst the number of organ donors across the UK has fallen for the first time in more than a decade.

The recently released Organ Donation and Transplantation Activity Report 2014/15 also revealed that, when approached, four out of 10 families refuse to give permission for their organs to be donated.

Last year 41 people in the West Midlands benefited from a living donor transplant where donors gave a kidney or part of their liver.

Difficult

Mr Black said: "I think if people were aware of the impact donating an organ would have and the fact it changes the recipient's and their family's lives then more people would donate. When people die the hospitals are faced with asking a really difficult question to families."

Mr Black's mother originally donated a kidney to him, but after three ultrasound scans, a biopsy, an MRI and an angiogram, it was revealed his new kidney was being starved of blood and was dying.

After having that kidney removed, he is currently waiting to receive a second transplant, this time from his best friend Stuart Bentley. After originally being told it could go ahead, he now has to wait to find out if the cysts on Stuart's kidney are dangerous or not.

Nathan Black was first donated a kidney by his mother Adrianne but it was later removed

He said: "They need to make sure they don't take a kidney out that there could be problems with later. It could set us back but we are keeping positive."

Mr Black expects to hear back on the danger of the cysts at the end of this month but he is remaining upbeat about his chances of a successful transplant.

He said: "We are all pretty confident that the cysts are just routine, Stuart is pretty fit and healthy. Once we hear back on the results of the second scan then it goes to the medical board for a decision. If there's no more complications then hopefully I can get my transplant in September."

Last year saw 4,431 organ transplants take place across the UK compared to 4,655 the year before.

This drop of 224, or five per cent, is the first for 11 years. The figures come from the Organ Donation and Transplantation Activity Report 2014/15 which suggests that the reason for this drop is because of fewer people dying in circumstances where they could donate and that there has been no increase in the rate of people signing up to give consent for their organs to be used if they die.

But the report also states that, in circumstances where a decision to donate was known, 120 families felt unable to honour their loved one's decision to donate, denying them their dying wish to save others after their death.

Jim Walker and his wife Mandy, of Skip Lane, Walsall, lost their daughter Beth Dykes last year to a sudden brain haemorrhage and were faced with the question of whether to donate Beth's organs or not.

However Mr Walker said his daughter, a former Great Barr High School pupil, had made her feelings clear previously that she wished to donate – meaning the tough question was slightly easier to answer at such an emotional time. He said: "The fact that we had this conversation with Beth and we knew her wishes made it slightly easier to make a tough decision when you're in no fit state to make such a decision."

Mr and Mrs Walker now run a website in Beth's memory encouraging people to talk about organ donation. In the wake of these figures Mr Walker encouraged families to have the organ donation discussion.

He said: "The most important thing is people realising they have to discuss organ donation with their family at some point.

"The truth is there's never a good time to have the conversation. At birthdays, Christmas, a family barbecue, the last thing on people's mind's is organ donation and that's completely fair enough but it is a conversation families must have sooner rather than later.

"I don't think people realise how many lives they impact by donating their organs. Everyone who receives an organ has a father, mother, auntie, uncle, grandad, grandmother etc, it effects so many people."

Grateful

Sally Johnson, the director of organ donation and transplantation for NHS Blood and Transplants, said: "We are truly grateful to the families of the 1,282 deceased donors and to each of the 1,092 living donors who made transplants possible last year. Their donations allowed more than 4,400 people to get the organ transplant they've been waiting for to save or vastly improve their lives.

"We have always known that because the opportunities to donate are so small, it is essential to increase the number of people who say yes to organ donation.

"We understand that families are expected to consider donation in their darkest hour so we would remind everyone to tell those closest to you now if you want to donate your organs – and then record that decision on the NHS Organ Donor Register. Should the time come, your family will know you want to donate your organs to help to save others.

"The decreases we can see across all types of organ transplant will lead to more deaths if we do not reverse this trend going forward."

Bosses in vow to keep £500m health groups

Issues crop up on farm

Gavin Williamson, right, with fruit farm owner Richard Simkin

AN MP discussed with workers the challenges facing rural businesses when he visited a fruit farm.

Gavin Williamson, MP for South Staffordshire, was a guest of Essington Fruit Farm as it prepared to launch its annual Maize Maze.

He viewed the crops about to be put on rotation and met with the Simkin family, who have farmed in Essington for more than 110 years.

Workers on the site were able to tell the MP about issues concerning the farm industry, especially the problem of fly-tipping. Mr Williamson, who has campaigned for tougher sanctions against culprits in South Staffordshire, said: "I was concerned to hear about the problems surrounding fly-tipping that the farm has dealt with recently.

"This is something that should not be tolerated, and I will continue to push for tougher sentences so this vandalism will be stopped."

The farm has a 50-acre Pick Your Own site which grows around 30 different crops including raspberries, blueberries and blackberries.

"It is so important we support buying local produce where we can," Mr Williamson said.

STAFFORDSHIRE'S six clinical commissioning groups will not be merged into one, a new board of chiefs to oversee healthcare in the county has pledged.

The Commissioning Congress will discuss how the combined budgets of the six CCGs – worth about £500 million a year – is best spent on health services.

The new board will also have input on an ongoing 'transformation programme' which bosses have already warned will introduce radical and unpopular changes to health services in Staffordshire this year.

It has now been confirmed that NHS England has pledged £1m to cover the costs of the scheme but chiefs have refused to say what those changes may be at this stage.

The new congress has already prompted a re-shuffle of top jobs after it was announced Andy Donald, the chief officer of CCGs for Cannock and Stafford, will now be taking up the same role for East Staffordshire and Seisdon Peninsula CCG.

Successful

Paul Simpson, finance chief for CCGs in Cannock as well as Stafford and Surrounds, said: "There will absolutely not be one CCG for the whole of Staffordshire.

"CCGs are the individual statutory organisations and will remain so.

"However, it does not mean there are no opportunities for closer joint working.

"Collaboration between Cannock and Stafford has been very successful.

"There is no reason why it won't work for three CCGs.

"The management team will be the same but the organisations will still be independent, as will the other three CCGs in the county. They will have the same members and GPs sit on them as they do now."

A full consultation on changes to health services in Staffordshire is expected as early as the autumn.

Tax credits were not a solution

I READ with interest Councillor Paul Witton's letter ("Budget spells misery for ordinary people", July 23).

A contributory factor was Labour's inability to understand that ordinary working people became disillusioned over the welfare state.

It became hard to understand why families who were inactive were fiscally much better off than a working family.

To counterbalance this, tax credits was seen as a solution but actually became a subsidy for businesses.

It kept the wages down and in some cases unwittingly kept production down because of its restraint on the hours you worked to receive tax credits.

The cost to the tax payer has ballooned to over £31 billion a year. Are these some of the mistakes Labour made, as you write about in the conclusion of your letter?

Traders and stallholders will lose out

ON reading the article concerning the street market in Cannock, I can understand why local traders and market stall holders are upset ("Shops' anger at street market", July 30).

The way of the council's thinking is that it should attract more shoppers to Cannock – then people are going to be spending more money in Cannock. What about the established traders and stallholders? They are losing out.

Perhaps the new street market should be limited to stalls that are providing goods for sale that we haven't got in the markets, not letting them sell the same items as the established stallholders and traders.

I was in Cannock on Friday with my son's partner and we were talking about this subject, and I said I felt sorry for the traders and stallholders, as people walking around Cannock will buy from one of these stalls as they are passing. They won't bother going into the market. Instead of this street market being in Cannock, why not Hednesford. There has not been a market in Hednesford for absolutely years.

If the street market was placed in Hednesford I am sure it would be welcomed by shoppers.

Park litter got worse

I USE Cannock Park twice a day to walk my dogs.

The litter around the seating is very bad; it occurs in the evening when there are youths drinking, eating and smoking. The park staff spend over an hour every morning clearing it up.

Even though there are many bins, this problem has got worse since Tesco opened. The park is for everyone to use, not abuse.

Publicity is lacking for link bus service

RECENTLY I picked up a leaflet about the link bus service between County and Royal Stoke Hospitals.

I have travelled from Rugeley to County Hospital by the public bus service, and then by this link bus service to Stoke Hospital and found it much quicker and more convenient than travelling all the way by the public bus service, which I have also done.

In view of the fact more people from the Rugeley area will now be travelling to Stoke for appointments, treatment, and visiting, I think it would be of great benefit if the service was more widely publicised. I have not seen in the Rugeley area any information about the link bus, and people cannot use the service if they do not know it exists.

Facts about riders tell different story

I REFER to the claim by Susan Brindley ("Horse riders are sensible on road safety", July 23) in response to my letter regarding the practice of impersonating police officers.

Unfortunately the facts tell a very different story. She is wrong on both assumptions, implying I am mistaken and cannot tell the difference between police and high-visibility clothing. An argument based on assumptions has no substance whatsoever.

Or is her letter a damage limitation exercise? The clothing I referred to was headgear, a cloth hat (navy blue), complete with hat band bearing the police draughtboard design of alternate black and white squares, as worn by PCSOs.

The jacket is sometimes high-visibility and sometimes navy blue, with a two-tone blue panel on the back bearing the word 'Polite' in 2in black lettering. The letter 'T' is obscured by a permanent fold sewn into the fabric. This is clearly an attempt to substitute 'Police' and is illegal. The trousers are also navy blue, the calf-length boots are black.

Pond can be cleaned up

IN reply to Councillor Bob Denson about the duck pond in Cheslyn Hay, they are just passing the buck stating that South Staffordshire Council is responsible. The parish council says Severn Trent is responsible for the pool and the brook. This may well be but it's not rocket science to get all parties together to do something. I agree that the parish have tried to improve the area, sadly without too much effect. The stink coming from the pool is awful, and I'm sure environmental health would be concerned.

Election candidates did not want to bring change

REPLYING to Grahame Wiggin ("Voters wanted change", July 23), the point of UKIP contesting the election was not to bring change, but rather to return their Tory friends.

Far from the Tories receiving a fright from UKIP, they are more likely to have laughed at Carswell, their former colleague, as he trudged back to Westminster alone.

Farage had said he would smash the two-party mould, but he failed to enter the House.

If the result of the vote is to stay in Europe, UKIP will have even less influence than they have now.

If the vote is to come out, the further existence of UKIP will be as pointless.

Former social worker is struck off register

James has a high old time

James Murdoch and instructor Garry Bogacki at Chase Wado Kai karate club, which has supported the teenager with his expedition

A TEENAGER from Cannock Wood has been scaling the heights of adventure on a month-long expedition.

James Murdoch set out with a party of fellow pupils to spend four days climbing Mount Meru and six days climbing Kilimanjaro.

The 16-year-old's schedule also includes spending some time helping the children in an orphanage.

He has received support from his karate club, Chase Wado Kai, which he joined six years ago and whose instructors, including Garry Bogacki, helped him to achieve his Black Belt in December 2014. James trains there regularly and often helps less experienced students.

James is travelling with 20 other boys aged 16 to 18 from his school, Queen Mary's Grammar, in Walsall.

After conquering Kilimanjaro, via the difficult but scenic Machame 'Whiskey' Route, the boys are then working for eight days in an orphanage helping out as required with building and maintenance.

The last four days will include expeditions into the jungle on safari before returning home this weekend.

A SOCIAL worker previously employed by Staffordshire County Council has been struck off after she was convicted of offences linked to child neglect.

Sylvia Dando started working for the county council as a newly qualified social worker with a fostering team based in Lichfield, a panel of the Health and Care Professions Council conduct and competence committee was told.

But in April last year she submitted her resignation and later police arrested and bailed her in respect of offences linked to child neglect.

Ms Dando, who failed to attend the hearing in London, pleaded guilty at Wolverhampton Crown Court in November to a charge of cruelty to a person under the age of 16. She was handed a 12-month prison sentence, suspended for 24 months, put under supervision for 24 months and ordered to pay £100 victim surcharge.

Failure

During the hearing in London, the panel was told there was evidence that Ms Dando had 'presented a risk to service users, breached fundamental tenets of the profession and brought the profession into disrepute'.

Panel chairman Philip Geering said:"The facts behind the convictions demonstrated a serious failure of judgment by Sylvia Dando in that having become aware of the sexual abuse she failed to take adequate steps to protect the wellbeing of Child A.

"Her poor insight and lack of remediation meant that she presents an ongoing risk to the public and in particular service users."

County council spokeswoman Gemma Styles said: "This person worked for us for a very short period of time before leaving the council. These allegations were not related to her work for the county council in any way, and we feel it would not be appropriate to comment further."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian Stanley feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Brian a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Exhibition casts light on church's 150 years

ONE of the first churches in the world to get electricity is throwing open its doors to celebrate 150 years since its construction.

Artwork, crafts and stunning historical items are on display at St Anne's Church in Chasetown to mark the anniversary of its opening in 1865.

The exhibition, which is open 10am-1pm Monday to Saturday until September 19, includes the marriage certificate from the first ceremony at the church and four wedding dresses from across the decades. The area's mining heritage is also explored.

One of the organisers, Peter Shelley, said he had been impressed by the congregation's involvement in finding items for display. "I've been amazed by some of what we've found over the last month," he said.

"We have a picture of children playing with an iron hoop, and we've got the hoop on display right next to it.

Personal

"We've got four wedding dresses, as well as pictures of the weddings. Two sets of marriage certificates make a family tree, so you can see how they fit together over the years."

The exhibition provides a personal look at one of the first churches in the world to be lit by electricity. "We can't say we're the first, but we're certainly in the top three" Mr Shelley added.

"The wonderful thing is that they used the winding rope from the colliery. The cable went right through Chasetown to the number two fly mine. It would have been a 60 volt light to begin with, about the same as the glow of a fire." The exhibition also features artwork from a group that meets in the church, quilts by a craft club and a display of straw work.

On August 21 at 7.30pm, flower arranger Glenice Yates will give a display. Tickets are £6 with light refreshments included. Call 01543 686111 or email stanneschurch@hotmail.co.uk

New jobs at furniture store

A NEW furniture store is opening on a retail park in Cannock, creating a number of jobs.

Danish firm JYSK, which specialises in Scandinavian-style home furnishing and decor, will launch its latest store at the Wyrley Brook Retail Park in Walkmill Lane, Bridgtown, this month.

Staff have moved onto the site to fit it out for a late-August opening. Bosses say they are keen to recruit from the local community.

The news comes as a further boost for Cannock which is in the middle of a retail boom with the Gateway Retail Park opening for business last week and a designer outlet village currently being built next to Mill Green Nature Reserve.

Cannock Chase Council leader George Adamson said: "This is great news for Cannock and it is going to create more jobs in the area.

"It's positive that it's a reputable international chain coming to the town as well."

JYSK has more than 2,200 stores in 37 countries.

Villagers share in Ye Olde memories

Julie Till, nee Spilsbury, at Primrose Park, Penkridge, which has since been renamed Kempson Road

Diane Walton, left, nee Spilsbury, Glyn Spilsbury, in front him, Ian Spilsbury, and Roy Spilsbury outside their grandmother's house at the Tanyard, Penkridge

THESE two fascinating photographs show Penkridge and some of its young residents in years gone by.

They came to light through a Facebook group called Ye Olde Penkridge which enables people to share pictures and memories of the village online. "We decided recently to hold a photoshare in our local church hall," Julie Till, one of the group's administrators, said.

"We had so many members joining, we wanted to reach more people and to welcome people to come along with their old photos to have them scanned while watching a slide show of our already substantial collection."

Death crash woman was twice over drink limit

A WOMAN who was twice the drink-drive limit was killed when her car crashed and overturned after she stormed out of her home following an argument, an inquest heard.

By Nigel Slater

Erif Wade died of head and neck injuries after she lost control of her green Ford Ka on the A5 Gailey Island on Watling Street, Cannock, in the early hours of February 22.

Cannock Coroners Court heard how the 30-year-old had problems with alcohol consumption and mental health for several years.

She had consumed several bottles of alcohol on the Friday night later that week and appeared 'argumentative' after her partner Adam Locke found her to be drunk at their home in Alsager, Cheshire.

Damaged

She left the home and drove back on two separate occasions despite pleas from her partner not to do so. But when she did it for a third time she was never to return.

Whilst driving in Staffordshire, Ms Wade lost control of her car which landed on its roof and it was left badly damaged. The inquest also heard how earlier, she reversed the wrong side of a McDonald's Drive Through in Cannock causing staff to escort her back to a parking position.

Toxicology reports carried out showed the victim had a blood alcohol reading of 187 milligrams per decilitre. The drink-drive limit is 80. She also had propranolol and the antidepressant trazodome in her system

Coroner Andrew Haigh said it was likely she had fallen asleep momentarily at the wheel and then oversteered causing the car to crash.

In a statement released after the inquest, Ms Wade's family said they hoped the formal conclusion of her death would provide them with much-needed closure.

Trolls in threat to kill father who rescued son

A FATHER who rescued his abducted son from a remote village in Thailand has revealed that online trolls threatened to kill him.

Sean Felton, from Norton Canes, travelled 6,000 miles and paid £7,000 to bring his son Jobe home after the three-year-old was taken away by his wife in 2010.

On his return home, Mr Felton launched the charity Abducted Angels to support parents who find themselves in the same situation.

But now the 44-year-old has spoken of a hate campaign against the charity, beginning in 2012.

Through a Facebook page titled 'Abducted Angels Busted' Mr Felton said he and other members of the charity were subjected to vile slurs.

One troll told Mr Felton he deserved the death sentence and another branded him a 'disgusting animal'.

Sean Felton and his son Jobe, aged three, who have been reunited

Help

Mr Felton, a self-employed painter and decorator, said: "I know who's behind it.

"It was someone I helped when I first set up the charity.

"I was warned not to get involved with them and was told this person was abusive but I try to see the good in people and wanted to help. I gave him the benefit of the doubt. He became abusive so I said I wouldn't help any more. In 2012 I started receiving death threats online. He said he was going to slash my throat."

Mr Felton said the man was given a six-month restraining order and for a while the abuse was scaled back.

But he said that last year the slurs started up again.

The troll has never physically hurt the single father but has left him fearful when out with his son, now aged eight, and greatly distressed.

He added: "The problem is, if you google 'Abducted Angels' there's a link to his site. The pages are closed down, then appear again under a new name. These parents have been through enough without having to read horrible stuff like this.

"It's distressing. I've tried to take no notice and carry on but he's targeting innocent people.

"My son hears me having conversations about it and he asks a lot of questions.

"So, it is affecting him. But there's no way I'm letting him get harmed," Mr Felton added.

Mr Felton met his wife Kim in 2005 while on holiday in Thailand, but five years later she fled Britain with their child. He posed as a rich American on Facebook, in order to trick his wife into handing over their son and then travelled 6,000 miles to the remote village of Chiang Rai to find her.

He then returned with his son. He has since published a book recounting his ordeal.

And in 2013, Sean marched from his home to Downing Street to present David Cameron with a 7,500-signature petition calling for a law to make it illegal to take a child out of the country without both parents' consent.

Newcomer Ray makes the transfer

Lichfield Rotary Club

THE monthly sales of garden tools at Barton-under-Needwood Methodist Church have yielded £1,200-00 already this year – double the amount for the same period last year – and Tools for Self-Reliance report this unexpected level of funding has enabled them to support an additional education programme in Africa.

Most of Rotary District 1060 donated garden tools via the Barton-under-Needwood route, so Lichfield is very much contributing to this successful venture.

Donated tools are not stockpiled, but transported promptly by either Tony Hill or Trevor James. Another consignment from Arbury Rotary Club is expected in early August.

One of the last jobs of outgoing President David Kershaw was the very pleasant one of welcoming Rotarian Ray Hassall who has now joined the club on a permanent basis, on a transfer from Brownhills. Ray has been a regular visitor and helper at meetings and events and deserves thanks for all the help he has given over the years.

Six Rotarians with family and partners joined then President David Kershaw for a very memorable and enjoyable trip to Berlin. Rotary Club Berlin International, Berlin's English speaking club, arranged a special barbecue at the Movenpick Hotel. Also at the barbecue Berlin were members of the Rotary Club of Copenhagen where banners were swapped in the usual way.

Inspirational Fiona humbled by honour

Midland Chase Soroptimists

Fiona Ford and SIMC President Carol Bailey and Sandra Mellor, of SI Newcastle

THE winner of the competition to find the Midland Chase Inspirational Woman 2015 was announced at the Region AGM held at the Chase Golf Club.

Eleven clubs in the Region had each nominated a woman who they felt fulfilled that title and the panel of five judges reached their decision following presentations held in June.

She is Fiona Ford, nominated by SI Newcastle. Fiona's own experience with hair loss following chemotherapy inspired her to set up a bespoke service for wig fitting in the Stoke area. She now has a salon called 'Fresh Hair' housed in the Royal Hospital, Stoke-on-Trent.

Midland Chase Region President Carol Bailey presented Fiona with a Royal Brierley crystal inscribed bowl and vouchers worth £150.

In accepting the title, Fiona said how humbled and honoured she felt to have been nominated, especially when she met the other nominees – and said that she now felt overwhelmed and couldn't quite believe that she had been chosen for the title.

Drugs from car put up for sale on Facebook

A MAN who saw class A drugs thrown from a car being chased by police later tried to sell them over Facebook, a court heard.

Paul Mciver even put an image of himself holding the bag of ecstasy tablets on the website and posted '£5 each in Walsall'. He later admitted possessing 50 of the tablets and a small amount of cocaine.

During a sentence hearing at Wolverhampton Crown Court, Mr Robert Cowley, prosecuting, said he could not be sure that Mciver, of Littlewood Lane, Cheslyn Hay, had sold any of the drugs.

Officers were alerted to the drugs after Mciver, aged 28, contacted police on October 4 last year asking for help in retrieving personal items he had left at a house.

Mciver told police after reacting badly to drugs he had consumed at the property he had been forced to 'escape' after others there had refused to call an ambulance.

Contacted

Mr Cowley said that after being treated at hospital Mciver returned to collect £65 he had left under a mattress, only to be confronted by a man with a knife.

He contacted the police, who went to the house and found, next to the money, a bag containing 50 ecstasy tablets, worth around £250, and just under 0.3 grams of cocaine, worth £20.

The owner of the home then showed police the comments Mciver had made on Facebook in which he explained he had witnessed drugs being thrown from a car being chased along Birmingham New Road, Wolverhampton. Mr Oliver Woolhouse, defending, said: "It was my client's call to the police to help him get his money which led them to find the drugs and led them to examine his phone and what was on Facebook.

"It is clear the offence was born out of naivety. The drugs literally fell in his lap. He thought it would be a good idea to broadcast this in a very dangerous and reckless way and almost publicly on Facebook."

The court heard that in one Facebook post Mciver said the drugs he had found were worth £5,000 and in another said he had found a buyer who would pay £2,000.

Mr Cowley said the posts indicated a 'significant quantity' of ecstasy beyond that retrieved by police, but he could not be sure Mciver had sold any drugs.

Recorder Nigel Baker QC sentenced Mciver to a total of 30 months for two counts of possessing class A drugs.

He told Mciver: "You are not unfamiliar with the language of drug dealing and by saying '£5 each in Walsall' that indicates to me there was slightly more going on than just the 50 tablets which were found by police."

Sarah celebrates sailing success

Medal marvel – Sarah Norbury, who came fifth in the Women's World Sailing Championships

A TALENTED Staffordshire sailor has said she is closer to fulfilling her dream of competing in the Olympic Games after achieving her best performance at a big global event.

Sarah Norbury, aged 18, and her racing partner Mari Davies, also 18, finished fifth in the 420 Women's World Sailing Championships in Japan. The event was one of the biggest Sarah has competed in her career and the fifth place finish stands as her best achievement at the event after taking part for a third time. The pair were representing Great Britain with only sailors from Australia, Japan, France and Spain finishing above them. Spain's duo of Marta Garrido and Maria Davila won the event.

The week-long event saw the world's most talented female youngsters in the sport take part in 12 races in six days at Castle Bay Karatsu. Their overall efforts in each race saw them finish in the top five.

The teenager, who regularly practises at South Staffordshire Sailing Club near Gailey, said: "It was an amazing experience to be in Japan. To finish fifth place overall was a great effort – the best we have achieved. Representing your country is such a great feeling and I want to do it more.

"At the end we were coming off the water so thrilled giving each other high fives," she added.

Staff in their prime for a birthday celebration

THE team at the Amazon fulfilment centre in Rugeley got into the party spirit to celebrate the firm's 20th birthday.

The milestone, celebrated by a range of activities including free cake and cookies for all staff, was held on Amazon Prime Day, an event that set new global sales records for the company.

Amazon, which opened its 700,000 sq. ft. Rugeley fulfilment centre in 2011, announced it sold more units on Prime Day than the biggest Black Friday ever and had more new members try Prime worldwide than any single day in Amazon history. Customers ordered 34.4 million items across Prime-eligible countries, breaking all Black Friday records with 398 items ordered per second.

Prime Day was also a great savings day – members globally saved millions on deals. Customers ordered hundreds of thousands of Amazon devices – making it the largest device sales day ever worldwide.

Manager Mark Hemming said: "Prime Day in Rugeley was a fantastic success and myself and the team here are delighted to have played a part in helping break a global sales record."

Young footballers score with new kit

The youngsters from Newland FC under-10s proudly display their new kit

FOOTBALL club Newland FC have been given a helping hand by the Hednesford McDonald's restaurant who have donated brand new football equipment and a new kit to the club's under 10s team. It stepped in to support Newland FC as part of the McDonald's Community Football Programme. McDonald's has been Community Partner with the FA for over 12 years and the recently renewed four-year programme focuses on supporting accredited grassroots clubs and their volunteers to help raise the standards of football across England and improve the experience for young aspiring footballers.

Dean Haynes, Business Manager, said: "Newland FC has a fantastic ethos and it was a pleasure to meet the team and see how the young players are getting on.

Stuart Harris, coach and manager at Newland FC added: "We are incredibly grateful for McDonald's donation and I'm sure the teams are going to love training with their new equipment."

HS2 route changes are put at £580m

CHANGES to the HS2 route will cost £580 million – but bosses insist they will keep within their £50 billion budget.

The £50bn project includes a proposed extension to the Midland Metro and plans for high-speed buses.

Building the line under the A38 in Lichfield at a cost of £133m and moving the Heathrow Express depot to Iver, near Slough, for £215m are also among the changes to the proposals.

Bosses say they are trying to absorb the extra expense into the estimated £50bn total costs. And they insist these new figures should not be viewed as 'extra costs' as there will be savings involved in the changes to the work being done. But campaigners say that figure is based on 2011 prices.

It has been reported that the Government is recalculating the cost of HS2 based on prices as they would be in 2018, when construction would be likely to start if they project receives Royal Assent.

The new figures are in documents called the Supplementary Environmental Statement (SES). A public consultation is being held on them until August 28. A £3.3 billion vision for HS2 was revealed last month that would create 52,000 jobs.

Schemes – a £3.3 billion vision for the HS2 project has been unveiled

Bosses want the Government to inject extra cash into the West Midlands and fund dozens of projects linked to the high-speed rail line. The costs of those schemes would be separate to those outlined in this latest document.

It includes extending the Midland Metro from Wednesbury to Brierley Hill through Dudley town centre; reopening Aldridge railway station to passengers and electrifying the line; introducing super-fast electric bus services linking HS2 stations to the i54 in Wolverhampton as well as Walsall, Halesowen and Lichfield; increasing line speeds on the Chase Line; electrifying the rail route between Wolverhampton and Shrewsbury; and the creation of a 'garden city' near Birmingham Airport.

HS2 Ltd spokesman David Meechan said: "The figures in the Estimate of Expense are not extra costs and are not being added to the budget.

"The first phase of this essential new rail link between London and the West Midlands remains within its original budget."

But Stop HS2 campaign manager Joe Rukin said: "With the swish of a pen, nearly £600m has been added to the bill for HS2.

"With it now turning out that The Treasury are looking at a more realistic estimate for how much HS2 will cost, opposed to what it would have cost if it had all been built four years ago, the numbers for this white elephant are surely going to get more eye-watering and more unaffordable."

Restaurant hands cheque to hospital

Tony Uddin, owner of the Dilshad, presents a cheque to Professor Anita MacDonald

A LEADING professor at Birmingham Children's Hospital accepted a cheque for £477 raised through an Indian restaurant's monthly curry and quiz night.

Prof Anita MacDonald, the UK's first consultant metabolic dietician, visited The Dilshad, in Cannock Road, Chadsmoor, for the event.

Restaurant owner Tony Uddin said: "We were delighted to hand over a cheque for £477 raised though our first three events. We also raised another £185.50 at July's event. Birmingham Children's Hospital is such a wonderful hospital. It is our chosen charity and we will continue to raise money for them through the monthly curry and quiz events."

Prof MacDonald said: "We are so grateful to Tony and the Dilshad and for all its wonderful customers who have raised this fantastic amount of money. It will go a long way to doing so much good."

The monthly event is compered by Guinness World Record holder David St John, who holds the record for the most appearances as a contestant on TV quiz shows.

The next event will be on August 17. The cost per person is £15 which includes, starter, main course, rice or naan and dessert or coffee plus entry to the quiz with maximum of six people per team. To book a place, call 01543 570264.

Man, 25, is jailed after threatening to shoot ex

A SPURNED lover has been jailed for 22 months after threatening to shoot his ex-girlfriend and blow up her house.

Daniel Burgess turned up at his ex-partner's house in Rugeley and delivered the threatening messages in a phone call recorded by police, Stafford Crown Court heard.

He had previously sent the woman mobile phone photos of him holding an imitation black pistol after she had finished their relationship, the court was told.

Mr Michael Grey, prosecuting, said armed officers then stopped the defendant's BMW outside the Ash Tree Inn and on the driver's seat was a imitation firearm.

Mr Michael Grey, prosecuting, said that when Burgess, aged 25, of St Thomas Way, Rugeley, called his ex-partner she was already at Cannock police station.

He said: "He was ranting and raving, making various threats to 'put a bullet through her head' and 'blow up her house'."

Burgess admitted possessing an imitation firearm with intent to cause fear of violence, and assaulting his ex-partner by beating.

Judge Mark Eades told him: "You have a track record of harming your partners, you know the score, and this case is a repetition.

"You began by assaulting your ex-partner. If matters had ended there it would not have been the most serious offence – serious though it is – but it didn't.

"You acquired a ball-bearing gun which looks like a real gun, you sent as series of photos and threats, including threats to kill her.

"Anyone who produces a firearm, even an imitation, in that sort of situation to terrify an ex-partner with threats to kill and maim can expect an immediate custodial sentence of some length." Mr Richard Bannister, defending, said Burgess had lost his job as a mechanical fitter and lost his relationship with his child.

He said: "There is some remorse and the last five months in custody have enabled him to reflect."

Latest award goes to The Bridge Inn

THE Cannock branch of Camra – the Campaign for Real Ale – have chosen The Bridge Inn at Hednesford for their second Pub of the Season award.

Bill and Mandy Whittle, licensees of the Cannock Road pub, were delighted to receive the award from branch chairman Malcolm Pearson at a special award evening.

The award is in recognition of pubs that provide a 'real community service and also help to promote real ale'. Mr Pearson said: "With the various sports teams based at the Bridge, this well-run pub deserved its award. Furthermore, they are helping the principal aims of Camra by promoting real ale, having held a very successful beer festival earlier this year with over 30 different ales and ciders."

Mr Whittle accepted the award on behalf of his staff thanking them for the efforts they put into the pub, and his regulars for creating a friendly and welcoming atmosphere.

Work starts on new homes

WORK has started on a new development of 34 affordable homes in Hednesford.

The homes in Stafford Lane will be a mixture of two and three-bedroom houses.

"The new homes will go some way to combat the lack of affordable homes for rent in Staffordshire with quality new homes," a spokesman for developers The Wrekin Housing Trust said.

"All homes will be built to meet or exceed current design standards, and will be energy efficient, meaning residents will benefit from lower fuel bills.

"There will also be parking for all properties, plus additional visitor spaces."

The trust is working with Niken Construction to build the homes, which will be complete early in 2017.

The new development will create 69 jobs in the wider economy including a number of apprenticeships in construction.

Steve Swann, development manager at The Wrekin Housing Trust, said: "We're delighted to be providing homes in Hednesford and helping local people find quality and modern homes."

For more information about the trust, and to apply for the Hednesford properties once they are available, visit www.wrekinhousingtrust.org.uk

Players net cash for minibus appeal

From left, resident Lily Farnell, deputy manager Linda Millington, table tennis player Jan Hodgetts, resident Norman Sumnall, club secretary John Quinn, home manager Steve Brookes, and resident Joan Fowler

MEMBERS of a table tennis group showed community spirit by raising funds for a minibus appeal for a care home in Walsall.

Cheslyn Hay Table Tennis Group, which has been going for 41 years, meets twice a week in the hall at Salem Church. One of the group members has recently won a silver medal for England.

When the group heard that Pelsall Hall was raising funds to buy a minibus for trips out for residents, they decided to give a helping hand and raised more than £2,000. Jan Hodgetts, England table tennis player and member, said: "My sister Joan Fowler lives at Pelsall Hall and when we heard about their appeal we knew we could help."

The members staged a 12-hour table tennis marathon and fun day with raffles, cake stalls donating to the appeal.

They also held a horse racing night and open garden day which raised £700. To help, call 01922 693399 or email steve.brookes@Greensleeves.org.uk

Groups can share in fund

BIDS are being invited for grants from a £500,000 pot of cash dedicated for use by community groups.

The fund was set up by the office of Police and Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis to help neighbourhoods tackle anti-social behaviour.

Groups are being invited to bid for money from his People Power Fund. The window for the latest round of applications opened on Saturday and remains open until September 14.

The pot of cash, which covers the 2015-16 period, supports community safety activities throughout Staffordshire in the form of grants of between £100 and £3,000. Mr Ellis said: "I have significantly increased the funding that local areas in Staffordshire have to make their communities safer.

"This puts half a million pounds back into local communities and is easy and simple to apply for.

"It's about local ideas to sort out local issues like anti-social behaviour. If someone has a good idea, the People Power Fund may be able to help them achieve it. If a community group has good ideas to cut crime or make their area safer, they should go to the website now to find out more."

Applications need to be sponsored by the group's neighbourhood police officer or PCSO and will initially be assessed by the local community safety partnership.

The People Power Fund is part of £2.5 million of Commissioner's Community Funding nationally. The Commissioner's Locality Deal Fund is made up of money seized from criminals as Staffordshire Police continue to strip offenders of their assets.

Fly-tipper is hit with court bill for £1,000

A MAN who dumped builders' waste on a school playing field has been ordered by a court to pay a total of nearly £1,000.

Jordan Langston emptied his van of tiles, wooden doors and cardboard packaging on the fields at St Bede's School in Bishton Hall near Great Haywood.

The 22-year-old from Cannock admitted fly-tipping when he appeared before Stafford magistrates and was fined £440.

He was also ordered to pay costs of £452 and a victim surcharge of £44.

The court heard that Langston, of Chatsworth Drive, had responded to an advert that had been placed on Facebook for someone to remove builders' waste for £60.

He told the court that he was ashamed for committing the offence, which happened in December.

Julie Simpson, for Stafford Borough Council, said fly-tipping has cost the local authority around £140,000 over the last five years.

In 2014, more than 350 cases were reported.

The dumped builders' waste

Councillor Frank Finlay, cabinet member for environment and health, said: "It is not acceptable to dump rubbish in our towns and rural areas.

"I hope our message is clear – treat our borough as a giant dustbin and face fines or prosecution." he added. Council bosses say householders have a duty to ensure that any rubbish which is removed from their homes is disposed of properly.

If paying someone, residents should ask for the waste carrier to provide their full address, phone number and vehicle registration.

It comes as a fresh crackdown on fly-tipping across Sandwell has been launched after the clean-up bill topped £180,000 in 12 months.

Sandwell Council says it is continuing to battle the 'huge problem' of people illegally dumping rubbish at sites in the borough, and thousands of pounds of taxpayers' money is being spent clearing up the waste.

Named

Council bosses say they are committed to investigating all cases to trace the culprits and bring those responsible to court.

Derelict pubs, patches of wasteland and alleyways are among the sites commonly targeted by fly-tippers.

Sites including New Hope Road and Shireland Road in Smethwick and Salisbury Road in West Bromwich have been named as some of the hotspots in recent years.

Morton's magic is captured on album

CD REVIEWS

by Danny Farragher

Eddy Morton
Rainbow Man

IT'S worth buying this album from prolific Midlands artist Eddy Morton for the fantastic artwork from the wonderfully named Tawdry Piffle.

Morton is an unassuming performer who runs Katie Fitzgerald's pub, Stourbridge, a hot bed of folk and traditional music, and co-organises The Stourbridge Folk Festival.

Rainbow Man is a wonderfully gentle album where Morton's easy style, experience and polished musicianship comes through on every track. Morton is a singer very much in the mould of Dylan.

Morton knows how to put a song together and doesn't mind crossing boundaries between Americana, Celtic, blues and folk.

With The Battle for Stourbridge Morton takes on the feel of Dick Gaughan with a more nasal/throaty grit which gives his singing a real edge. There is an impressive range of songs on this album which shows Morton's versatility. There is an emotional strength to his ballad When I'm Gone. There is also some great blues guitar on this complementing Morton's gritty voice.

Morton is one of the Black Country's hidden treasures. Many people know him as the founder of The Bushbury Mountain Daredevils, now contracted to The Bushburys, but he is much more than that. He is one of those people who never goes for the flashy eye-catching approach but when you hear him, he can stop you in your tracks. Rainbow Man is available now through New Mountain Music.

The distinctive artwork of Eddy Morton's new album Rainbow Man

Robyn Stapleton
Fickle Fortune

The first thing which strikes you aboutRobyn Stapleton's debut album is how exquisitely pure her voice is.

Kicking off with a wonderfully traditional murder ballad Two Sisters, which has been covered many times, Stapleton's voice bringing a freshness to it.

There is a lovely jumping beat to the song provided by the accordion of Stephen Heffernan.

Stapleton executes a lovely languid style to her singing with the Irish song Bruach Na Carraige Baine, which means The Edge of the White Rock, and is a song of doomed love.

The Shuttle Rins, from the 19th century, tells of social change. Stapleton's light voice, during the refrain, mirrors the forward and backwards movement of the loom's shuttle. She won BBC Radio Scotland's Young Traditional Musician award in 2014 and when you listen to Fickle Fortune you can hear why.

Fickle Fortune is out now on Laverock Records.

Pete Shirley
Sunset Katy and Other Stories

There is something reassuringly and wonderfully organic about Pete Shirley's new album. Like so many original folk singers Shirley is one man and his guitar.

He comes from Audley, Stoke on Trent and works full time carrying out his passion for singing and songwriting whenever he can.

Shirley has an honest voice, it's gentle and easy on the ear and you enjoy the words and the music as a combination like strawberries and cream or fish and chips.

He opens with Silver Like A Star and Shirley has this quality about his singing which is just so enjoyable. His style, although very different, brings to mind singers such as Burl Ives and Pete Seeger with songs which appear simple but you can feel there is a lot of feeling in what he sings.

His observations about nature and about the changing world around him are very poignant.

Shirley, in some ways, is a throwback to the days of Woody Guthrie.

No fixative, no surgery and the potential to fix denture stabilisation problems

Steven Burchell Dip CDT RCS (Eng) with dentist Dr Polly Mineva, and right, technicians working on suction technology dentures

DENTAL technician Steve Morris carefully crafts a denture, ensuring that a small aperture on the side of the prosthetic will be able to accommodate a tiny valve.

The denture looks like any other, but the clever diaphragm development to help hold it secure can give it the edge over its traditional counterparts.

"It's clever stuff," says Steve (GDC 142474), "a small diaphragm seals off a one-way valve under bite pressure, creating a vacuum between the denture and gums. The result is a better fit to the soft tissues and improved resistance to any dislodging forces created by eating and speaking."

Steak for dinner

For the right person, the Ultra Suction Solution can remedy common denture stability problems without surgery and messy fixatives.

"We recently manufactured a second prescription for a patient. We knew the fit was as perfect as it could possibly be, but I was amazed when they called the lab to tell us they'd been on their initial 'test run' with a steak for dinner.

"The patient was very happy with the outcome," adds Steve.

The Suction Solution option attracts the biggest number of inquiries at the Denture Clinic in North Street, Dudley.

Principal Steven Burchell Dip CDT RCS(Eng) GDC 108353, who heads the team at his multi-disciplined practice says: "We have always endeavoured to be on the very cusp of clinical development and this device is another useful option in our commitment to try to deliver results greater than patient expectations."

Historically, lower dentures can present stability problems as the jawbone erodes with age. With traditional dentures this can cause lower teeth to move and result in painful friction problems on gums.

The suction device can be mounted in upper or lower dentures and due to its efficiency the size of the acrylic 'plate' can sometimes be reduced, improving speech and taste.

"I need to stress, however, the option is not suitable for all, but a single, free initial consultation would determine whether it could be the way forward. We never sell solutions here, but provide honest, comprehensive, clinical appraisals that help patients make informed choices," says Steven.

To achieve an harmonious fit, Denture Clinic prescriptions are 'set' using a Biofunctional Prosthetics System (BPS) which helps accurately replicate natural teeth anatomy during the production process.

"The fit is stunningly accurate," he adds.

Typically, denture patients will be assigned more than three-and-a-half hours of surgery time in achieving the best possible outcome.

Scanner

The Denture Clinic operates hand-in-glove with Steven's North Street Dental & Implant Clinic operation.

"Having everything under one roof – denture provision, general dentistry and dental implant provision – gives us a huge set of solutions and a deep pool of clinical skill from which we can draw.

"With a 3-D scanner, modern and air conditioned surgeries and a creative team, I believe we are strongly placed to tackle most problems," says Steven.

Steven, whose clinics attracts patients from as far as Portugal, Spain, the Isle of Skye and the Isle of Anglesey, adds: "Implant dentistry is the ultimate, long-term solution for denture stability problems, but it is not suitable for everyone, neither is it all patients' first preference.

"The beauty of the suction technology is that it has the potential to deliver in the right patient excellent retainer qualities without the complex clinical procedures required for implant work."

Reece, 14, in walk to Blackpool for charity

FROM Burntwood to Blackpool – one youngster is walking more than 100 miles to raise money for a cancer charity.

Reece Young is setting off on a 106-mile journey on August 28 in aid of Teenage Cancer Trust.

The 14-year-old will walk for 12 hours a day, over three days, to reach the Blackpool Tower. He took on the challenge as part of his bronze Duke of Edinburgh's Award.

Reece Young

The Chase Terrace Technology College student was inspired by former pupil and fellow Burntwood fundraiser Stephen Sutton, who helped to raise more than £5 million for the charity. He said: "Being a teenager myself it's a cause close to my heart."

The youngster, from May Close, set his fundraising target at £106 – a pound to cover each mile – but has already more than doubled that, so far raising more than £225. The Year 9 student will set off at 6am from his school.

He will be supervised and supported by a team of eight family and friends. His sister Zoe Jones said: "We are so very proud of him." To donate visit www.justgiving.com/reece-young

Young musicians show their mettle

The Nation Youth Orchestra of Great Britain in action before they tackle Mahler at Birmingham Symphony Hall

THE National Youth Orchestra of Great Britain returns to Birmingham for its annual concert as part of its most ambitious summer to date.

Under the baton of Sir Mark Elder, of the Halle Orchestra, the teenagers perform Mahler's epic Symphony No 9 alongside the world premiere performances of Re-greening by Tansy Davies, written especially for NYOGB, at the city's Symphony Hall tomorrow evening (Friday).

The orchestra's young composers will be presenting a free performance of some of their works at the Symphony Hall foyer at 6pm, before the 7.30pm concert. See www.thsh.co.uk or call 0121 780 3333.

Following a two-week residency in Birmingham, the orchestra travels to Aldeburgh, the BBC Proms and Berlin. NYOGB's 14 to 19-year-old members are drawn from across the UK and this year nine of the 163 talented teens hail from the West Midlands. Among them are double bassists Harry Atkinson (Birmingham) and Patrick Phillip (Bridgnorth), violinists Philip Edwards (Stafford) and Madeleine Dawson (B'ham), cellists Joshua Mountford (B'north) and Dominic Marten (B'ham).

Activities in Birmingham included ensembles taking music to the streets and workshops at the University of Birmingham.

Miss is in a bottle...

FREAKS and feathers will surround you at the Carnival of the Bizarre, prepare to be shocked and amazed by a blend of weird variety acts and burlesque from the same people who stunned audiences — and the Britain's Got Talent judges — with notorious touring show The Circus of Horrors.

At Bilston's Robin 2 venue tonight (Thursday) the audience will get close up and personal with some truly bizarre, and sometimes horrifying, performers.

Led by Circus of Horrors undead Ringmaster Doktor Haze, the shows cast of freaky characters can include Captain Dan, the demon dwarf; The Mongolian Laughing Boy; the Human Pincushion; the sword swallowing Hannibal Helmurto.

The circus element comes with performers including the girl in the bottle and Anastasia IV the blade walker, fire whirlwind acrobatics from the Voodoo Warriors and a bevy of burlesque beauties. Plus a multitude of shocks and surprises from the most bizarre acts around.

Advance tickets cost £15 or £16 on the door. Call 01902 401211 or see the www.therobin.co.uk website.

Other gigs coming up at the Mount Pleasant venue include: tomorrow, Alice Cooper tribute act Gallus Cooper with Scorpions tribute Scopyons; Saturday, U2-2 recreate Bono and co circa The Joshua Tree; Sunday, Monsters of Rock featuring Black Sabbath tribute Sabbotage; Thursday, veteran San Francisco satirical rockers The Tubes, featuring singer Fee Waybill, make a rare UK appearance.

Dancer to make her last UK performance

A WORLD famous dancer will return to Birmingham Hippodrome for her last ever UK performance.

Sylvie Guillem will be performing Life in Progress, featuring existing and new works by choreographers who have influenced her career. Performances on September 8 and 9 will be the last by the former star of the Paris Opera Ballet and The Royal Ballet in Britain.

Promoted to the rank of 'Etoile' by Rudolf Nureyev at the age of 19, the French dancer has decided to retire at the age of 50. Her very final performance will be in Japan in December. See www.birminghamhippodrome or call 0844 338 5000.

Punk's not dead, at least for a week

IT'S a punk rock week ahead in Birmingham and the Black Country.

Slam Dunk favourites Don Broco, whose new album Automatic comes out tomorrow, have sold out their gig at Birmingham Institute's Temple venue on Wednesday.

The Digbeth venue hosts San Francisco punk veterans The Avengers on Monday and Aussie hardcore outfit Break Even on Thursday (August 13). That's the same night US outfits A Wilhelm Scream play 02 Academy 3, Teenage Bottlerocket the Slade Rooms, and White Punks On Dope veterans The Tubes play Bilston's Robin 2.

Influential art of Japan on display

AN exhibition at Wolverhampton Art Gallery features images created by 19th century Japanese artist Utagawa Hiroshige.

Hiroshige's Japan: 53 Stations of the Tokaido Road feature a collection of landscapes that the artist was commissioned to create on the new road between the old capital Kyoto and Edo, which became Tokyo.

The woodblock prints, on display at the Lichfield Street gallery until November 21, had an influence on the Impressionists and even today's Manga comic art. It also the first touring exhibition to come to Wolverhampton from Oxford's prestigious Ashmolean Museum.

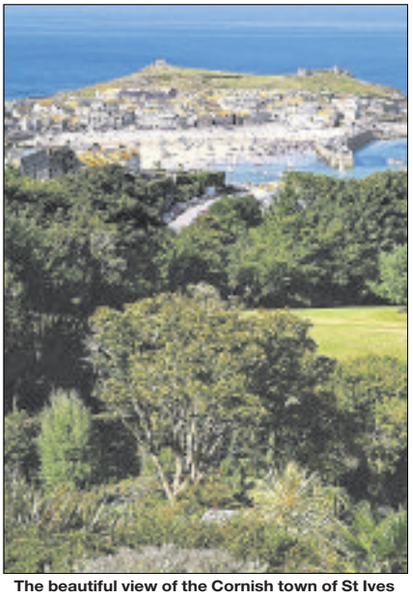
The Chronicle Thursday, August 6, 2015

At all times of day the coastal town looks welcoming

The bedroom at the Tregenna Castle Estate

St Ives blends traditional and modern seaside attractions well



The beautiful view of the Cornish town of St Ives

A beautiful mix of old and new – St Ives welcomes you

REST, relaxation and recuperation.

It's why most go on holiday, is it not? Yes, we all love a bit of action on our breaks every now and then. A sense of fun and adventure. Trying new things.

But, sometimes, just turning the mobile phone off, ignoring the emails and cutting off the outside world is the perfect bit of therapy to recharge those batteries.

In this case, St Ives should be highly considered. A beautiful mix of old and new, it throws its arms open to welcome you in.

For the perfect overview of its quaint little harbour, then the Tregenna Castle Estate is the perfect place to base your visit.

The bay-view rooms offer spectacular views down over the shops, bars and ice-cream parlours that line the old harbour. You can also plan excursions by foot with views down to the beach offering a host of options to choose between. But you don't even have to head down to the sand yet. There's plenty to do just where you are.

By Leigh Sanders

Tired from your long journey down? First of all, head straight for the leisure complex attached to the back of the hotel to unwind.

The indoor heated pool and spa offer somewhere relaxed for families to spend some quality time. There is also a sauna and steam room and a gym.

Squash courts are also available, and the tennis courts out front are a real treat. There are woodland walks and walled gardens to enjoy. But be prepared to tackle some hills. The journey up some of them won't be the most relaxing part of your stay. But when you are ready to hit the town then just walk straight down the hill and let gravity guide you in. You hit Porthminster beach, a calm expanse of golden softness ideal for families. It has all the facilities you would require, and is a short walk from the harbour itself.

Activity

This is still a working port, and you can watch lazily as the fishermen bring in the latest catches you know will be adorning the array of seafood restaurants for you to sample later on. Most of the activity is to be found here, particularly for youngsters. They will want to head straight to Patsea Arcadia – harbour amusements full of fun.

While here, Kudos simply has to be visited. Situated on Fore Street, it is a real Aladdin's cave chocked from floor to ceiling with wonderfully unique items the owner has sourced from trusted collectors around the world. Once the town has been scoured it is worth heading up towards what is known as The Island. A grassy hill behind the harbour, it can be accessed via a series of narrow back streets that house a number of independent art galleries.

Once ascended, you will find the smallest of chapels providing views that will amaze. If you are lucky enough, a pod of dolphins will swim past too to welcome you.

When you have done as much or as little exploring as you like it is time to head back down in to town and sample some of that food. If you like fish and are staying at the Tregenna, then it is worth one last trek back to base to sample The Brasserie.

Exceptional service and delightful food will leave you stuffed and ready for sleep, but not before visiting the hotel bar next door and settling into one of the luxurious sofas adorning the entrance hall.

The Cube: Celebrity Special (ITV, 8pm)

Phillip Schofield invites comedians Rob Beckett and Rufus Hound to take part in a charity edition of the nerve-racking game show. Both are challenged to complete up to seven seemingly simple tasks of skill, dexterity, reaction, wit and wisdom within the confines of a large transparent cube. But each celebrity has only nine lives – and with each one they lose, the pressure mounts to win the jackpot of £250,000 for their chosen causes. Phillip Schofield is on hand to provide words of encouragement. Last in the series.

Grosse Pointe Blank, Friday, BBC1, 11.35pm

WEDNESDAY

THURSDAY

FRIDAY

Grosse Pointe Blank, BBC1, 11.35pm

A hitman takes the chance to combine his latest assassination job with a trip back to his home town for a school reunion. The occasion starts to get complicated when an old flame turns up and rekindles their lost romance – while a rival killer harasses him to join an assassins' union. Black comedy drama, starring John Cusack. (1997)

Jimmy faces a burning issue in the Highlands

What do Steptoe and Son, Last of the Summer Wine, The Liver Birds, Up Pompeii, Till Death Do Us Part and Are You Being Served? have in common?

Well, in addition to being among some of the best-loved and most successful sitcoms in the BBC archives, they all started life as episodes of Comedy Playhouse.

The anthology, which aired between 1961 and 1975, featured one-off comedy pilots, with the best-received being turned into full series.

Of course, not every episode went on to be a fondly remembered classic – Shamrot, On the Knocker, or Barnaby Spoot and the Exploding Whoopee Cushion, anyone? – but the hit rate was high enough for the BBC to revive the format last year with three more pilots.

And now one of them, Miller's Mountain, has been renamed Mountain Goats and give a six-part run – and some may think that given the Comedy Playhouse track record, it's got a lot to live up.

Luckily, the signs are promising as the new series does have a great cast in its favour, including Sharon Rooney, who is probably best known for her acclaimed performance as troubled Rae in E4's My Mad Fat Diary.

She's certainly enjoying her latest role, especially as it's provided her with a change of pace.

She told Radio Times: "Comedy has been nice to do because My Mad Fat Diary was quite emotional. I don't think I've ever laughed so much on a job. They gave us an outtake video and we're laughing on it the whole time."

Hopefully, the audience will be just as amused. For those who missed the pilot, the series is described by the BBC as "an energetic studio sitcom set around the antics of a ragtag group of Mountain Rescue volunteers. Set in the Highlands, the series takes us from pub to hillside as our ramshackle family try to save walkers, climbers, dogs and, most often, themselves."

In particular, it focuses on the young, enthusiastic, and more than a little naïve Connor (Kevin Mains), who has just joined the team. He's learning under the supposedly watchful eye of Jimmy (Jimmy Chisholm), who is an old hand – although organisation is not his strong point.

Other characters include Bernie (Kathryn Howden), the team's head of operations, and Jules (Rooney), a no-nonsense barmaid – in fact, one of the most striking aspects of the pilot was that for a show about mountain rescue, a surprising amount of the action took place in the a pub.

We're promised some location filming in the series proper, so we may get a better sense of the great outdoors.

In this first episode, Conor continues to learn the ropes, but his mum isn't particularly happy about his new career _ and no wonder, given that Jimmy proves he can't really be trusted with his own safety after he burns his house down.

Is Conor's first rescue mission going to be finding a new home for his fellow rescuer?

MONDAY

Flying to the Ends of the Earth

Channel 4, 8pm

Arthur Williams travels to the deserts of northern Australia, the islands of the Coral Sea and the jungles of Papua New Guinea, where flying is the only way in and out. He first visits a couple running a cattle station almost as big as Wales, where helicopters round up thousands of cows in a risky aerial ballet, before flying on to meet the Turner family, who bought their own desert island in the Coral Sea in 1985. Finally, Arthur joins the flying missionaries of Papua, who brave perilous jungle airstrips to bring supplies.

Ben Fogle: New Lives in the Wild

Channel 5, 9pm

The ever-affable adventurer's latest series draws to a close with a trip to French Polynesia in the middle of the vast Pacific Ocean, a place rarely explored by humans. But two people who love it there and knows it better than most is 47-year-old Brit Rick and his 33-year-old Slovenian girlfriend Jasna. Unlike previous participants in the series, Rick and Jasna don't live in a shack on dry land – they describe themselves as sea gypsies, who wander the ocean in a tiny sailing boat. Ben learns more about their lifestyle by finding out how to free-dive to drop anchor, preserve the food their catch and how to make wine. He also gets up close and personal with some of the creatures who share the environment with Rick and Jasna.

TUESDAY

Love Your Garden

ITV, 8pm

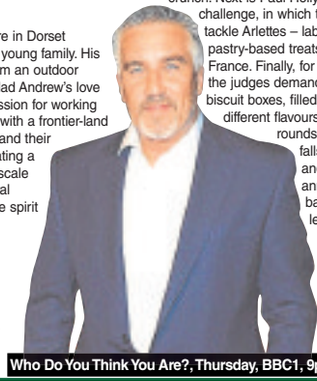
Alan Titchmarsh and the team are in Dorset creating an exciting garden for a young family. His idea for the Drakes is to give them an outdoor space that reflects terminally ill dad Andrew's love of the great outdoors and his passion for working with wood. He opts for a garden with a frontier-land theme that Andrew, wife Rachel and their young son Lucas can enjoy, creating a prairie-inspired back yard of big scale rustic wood structures, agricultural motifs with craftsmanship and the spirit of adventure at its core.

WEDNESDAY

The Great British Bake Off

BBC1, 8pm

With the cake week completed, and one of their number already eliminated from the competition, the 11 remaining home bakers must now prove their skill at making biscuits, a task that can be deceptively difficult, and one that has undone many a confident Bake Off contestant in the past. The opening signature challenge this week is to create 24 biscotti, Italian delicacies that must be baked twice to deliver the perfect crisp crunch. Next is Paul Hollywood's technical challenge, in which the contestants tackle Arlettes – labour-intensive, puff pastry-based treats from southwest France. Finally, for the showstopper, the judges demand bespoke edible biscuit boxes, filled with 36 biscuits of different flavours. After all three rounds have concluded, it falls to Mel Giedroyc and Sue Perkins to announce which of the bakers will be asked to leave the tent.



Who Do You Think You Are?, Thursday, BBC1, 9pm

THURSDAY

Who Do You Think You Are?

BBC1, 9pm

Every time a new run of the genealogy series is announced, viewers are left wondering who will be featured on it. After all this time and so many editions, some have suggested that the show must be running out of steam and that the celebrities will soon be Z-listers rather than bona fide stars. However, the programme's researchers keep coming up trumps – and if you need proof of that check out the list of luminaries set to grace this, the 12th season. Great British Bake Off star Paul Hollywood (who is the first celeb to appear), model Jerry Hall, Last Tango in Halifax cohorts Derek Jacobi and Anne Reid, polymath Mark Gatiss, actresses Frances de la Tour and Jane Seymour, choirmaster Gareth Malone, journalist Frank Gardner and presenter Anita Rani will all feature.

FRIDAY

Would I Lie to You?

BBC1, 8.30pm

No sooner has she left The One Show sofa, the ubiquitous Alex Jones is back, this time on the panel show in which participants attempt to hoodwink their opponents with absurd facts and plausible lies about themselves. It's all in good fun, and host Rob Brydon and team captains David Mitchell and Lee Mack know how to squeeze the maximum amount of laughter from each absurd suggestion.

New Jazz very affordable

Honda's all-new Honda Jazz subcompact hatchback will be priced from £13,495 on-the-road for the entry-level S model, rising to £17,425 for the flagship EX Navi CVT model.

Competitive PCP options for the versatile and sophisticated new Honda are expected to start from £149 per month (5.9 per cent APR with a 30 per cent deposit), bringing exceptional affordability to the subcompact hatchback segment.

The all-new Jazz builds on the strong reputation of its highly successful predecessors.The newcomer retains the classic Jazz silhouette yet exhibits distinctive contemporary styling, including a powerful new face and strong character lines.

A new platform increases overall length by 95 mm, but highly efficient packaging means that the latest Jazz is proportionally even bigger on the inside than the previous generation model. Occupants will benefit from both boot space (354 litres with the rear seats up and 897 litres with the rear seats down) and passenger space that are unrivalled in the class. The all-new Jazz offers exceptional versatility, retaining Honda's highly practical Magic Seat system which allows for numerous cargo configurations and a maximum interior loading length of an impressive 2,480 mm.

Specifications are generous across the range, with base-grade S models fitted as standard with features such as air conditioning, cruise control with speed limiter and dusk sensing auto lights. Every grade comes with Honda's City-Brake Active to help avoid low-speed accidents.

The mid-grade SE model, priced from £14,595, adds front and rear parking sensors, electrically adjustable and heated door mirrors and 15" alloy wheels. Honda's Driver Assistance Safety Pack is also included, giving owners the extra reassurance of five advanced active safety aids.

Those opting for the top-grade EX model (from £15,715) get smart entry and start, automatic climate control and six-speaker audio upgrade. Styling is enhanced with 16-inch alloy wheels and front fog lamps.

Customers opting for the SE or EX models will also benefit from the Honda Connect in-car infotainment system as standard. This Android-based system features an app-based 'pinch, swipe and tap' interface accessed on a seven-inch touchscreen in the centre of the dash.

Honda Connect comes with pre-installed apps, with others available for download from the Honda App Centre. These give rapid access to internet-based services such as web browsing, real-time traffic information, news and weather, social media, and internet music stations. Integrated Garmin navigation is available as an option on SE and EX models.

Designed and engineered to achieve a five-star Euro NCAP rating, every all-new Jazz sold in Europe will be equipped with Honda's City-Brake Active system as standard. SE and EX models will be fitted with Honda's Driver Assistance Safety Pack, which uses radar sensors, plus forward – and rear-facing cameras. This comprehensive suite of active safety technologies includes forward collision warning, traffic sign recognition, intelligent speed limiter, lane departure warning and high-beam support system.

A new, highly efficient, highly responsive 1.3 litre i-VTEC petrol engine from Honda's Earth Dreams Technology series delivers 102 PS at 6,000 rpm. This power unit delivers the sprightly driving performance of the previous Jazz's 1.4 litre engine, together with fuel economy equivalent to its 1.2 litre.

'Now in its third generation, Jazz continues to evolve its unique blend of quality, compact exterior dimensions and class-leading interior space.'

Combined with either a six-speed manual gearbox or a newly developed CVT, emissions are as low as 106 g/km of CO2. The CVT's driveability is given a more natural 'multi-gear' feel through the use of new control software exclusive to Europe which simulates seven speeds and provides optimised gear change mapping.

Leon Brannan, head of cars at Honda UK, said: "Now in its third generation, Jazz continues to evolve its unique blend of quality, compact exterior dimensions and class-leading interior space. And, with highly competitive list prices from just £13,495 and very affordable PCP packages from £139 per month, we are expecting strong demand for the all-new Jazz.

"The all-new Jazz signals the fourth of five new and refreshed models for Honda in Europe in 2015, an exciting year in which we're boldly re-energising the brand. The Jazz is a world car that has now sold over five million units since it was introduced in 2001. The greatest strength of Jazz is its broad appeal to different customer segments, and we're confident this latest generation will only broaden that appeal."

It goes on sale in the UK in September.

At the wheel of Blue Bird

Pendine Sands came alive as spectators watched a commemorative run of the iconic 350hp Sunbeam, on the 90th anniversary of Sir Malcolm Campbell's World Land Speed Record of 150mph.

The National Motor Museum, Beaulieu, marked the anniversary with a demonstration run in the restored Sunbeam with Sir Malcolm's grandson Don Wales (pictured right) at the wheel.

Don, who is also a Land Speed Record holder, said: "I was thrilled to be given this amazing opportunity to sit at the wheel of my grandfather's car back at Pendine where he set his record. It was an honour both to follow in his footsteps and to drive this iconic car on such a special occasion.

"My grandfather (pictured below) was a remarkable man and for us to remember him and honour some of his achievements in this way is very humbling. I really must thank Beaulieu for this opportunity and for all the hard work the restoration team have done on her."

The car was the brainchild of Sunbeam's chief engineer and racing team manager, Louis Coatalen, and was constructed at the company's works in Wolverhampton during 1919 and early 1920. Its power came from a modified 18.322 litre V12 Manitou Arab aero engine, a type used on naval seaplanes.

The Sunbeam, renamed Blue Bird by Campbell, holds three World Land Speed Records, the first achieved by Kenelm Lee Guinness at Brooklands in 1922 with a speed of 133.75mph. Campbell then purchased the car, had it painted in his distinctive colour scheme and in September 1924 achieved a new record speed of 146.16mph at Pendine, raising it the following year to 150.76mph.

Demonstration

Campbell then sold the Sunbeam and it passed through a number of owners and was in a poor condition when purchased by Lord Montagu in 1957, for his ever expanding motor museum. It was restored to working order and when not on display, it was taken to motoring venues in the UK, Europe and as far afield as South Africa. Its last outing was at the British Automobile Racing Club Festival of Motoring at Goodwood in July 1962 when Lord Montagu took it on a 3-lap demonstration run and Donald Campbell did a lap d'Honneur.

During a test fire-up in 1993 to assess the car's condition, disaster struck when a blocked oil way in the engine caused it to seize and 'throw a rod'. For several years after that, the car was on display in the museum with a very visible hole in its engine where the piston and con-rod had exited.

In January 2014, following a complete mechanical rebuild by the National Motor Museum's workshop team over a period of many years, the Sunbeam was fired-up again – the first time it had been heard in public in over 50 years. The following month it was a star of the show at Retromobile, Paris and was also run at the 2014 Goodwood Festival of Speed.

Doug Hill, the National Motor Museum's manager and chief engineer, said: "When we were rebuilding the Sunbeam, I always hoped it would be finished by 2015 so we could run it here today on the 90th anniversary of its World Land Speed Record. I cannot think of a more fitting tribute to Louis Coatalen, the designers, the engineers who built it and the people who developed it during its racing history. I am also indebted to our team of engineers and volunteers who have spent more than 2000 working hours returning it to running condition."

Supporting the run was the 1933 aero-engined Napier Railton Special, which holds the all-time lap record of 143.44mph at Brooklands. The Napier-Railton has its own unique history at Pendine, having been the star (alongside James Mason and Ava Gardner) of the 1951 movie Pandora & The Flying Dutchman. In the film, the car is used for an attempt on the Land Speed Record, for which the action sequences (culminating in the car being driven into the sea to quench an engine fire) were filmed on Pendine Sands during 1950.

Don't throw away good record for one text at roadside

By James Parker

Driving instructors working for the AA will step up efforts this summer to convince young and other new drivers not to use mobile phones or text at the wheel – even when pulled over with the engine running.

This follows AA research showing that more than 70 per cent of younger drivers think it is acceptable to read and send texts when the car is stopped, idling at the side of the road.

With increasing pressure for mobile phone fines to be increased sharply, the appeal to young drivers is not only to safeguard them and other road users. It is also a plea to them not to throw away their good driving records, their tuition and their money within months of passing their tests. Parents who have 'invested' in their children's driving lessons also need to emphasise the importance of not texting behind the wheel.

Overall, 55 per cent of respondents of a new Populus poll for the AA Driving School believe it is acceptable to send or read a text message in breach of the mobile telephone law. But it is drivers in their teens and twenties who are prepared to leave themselves vulnerable at the roadside and potentially present an obstacle to other vehicles – just to answer a text. The least severe punishment, three penalty points, puts them half way to losing their licence during the first two years of their driving career.

Acceptable

When asked the circumstances under which the 28,265 drivers polled might feel it is acceptable to read or write and send a text:

• Over half (55 per cent) believe it is acceptable to do so when pulled over with the engine running. This increased to 71 per cent of 18-24 year olds and 73 per cent of those aged 25-34.

• Almost a third (31 per cent) believes it is acceptable to read or send a text when stationary in queuing traffic. This rises to almost half (48 per cent) of 18-24 year olds and 38 per cent of respondents in London. While younger drivers were most likely to consider it acceptable, a quarter of over 65s also felt that they could read or send a text while stationary in queuing traffic.

• One in 10 believes it is acceptable to read or send a text message when stopped a red traffic light - rising to almost a quarter (23 per cent) of 25-34 year olds and 16 per cent of respondents in London.

• One in twenty believed it is acceptable to read or send a text message when in slow moving traffic. Rising to 17 per cent of 18-24 year olds.

When asked when it was acceptable to just read a text or instant message:

•50 per cent of females believe it is acceptable to read a text message when pulled over with the engine running. Rising to 63 per cent of 25-34 year olds.

• 31per cent of females would read a message if stationary in queuing traffic. This jumps to 41per cent of both 18-24 year olds and 25-34 year olds, while one in five over 65s would read a message in a queue of traffic.

Respondents were also asked about composing and sending messages:

• 40 per cent believe it is acceptable to send a text message when stationary with the engine running. Rising to 63 per cent of 25-34 year olds.

• Almost a quarter of 18-24 year olds think it is acceptable to send a text when stationary in queuing traffic

Mark Peacock, Head of the AA Driving School said, "New drivers should not undermine the time and effort they have put into learning to drive by committing a needless offence which carries three penalty points, especially when they are allowed only six points before a ban.

"The only time it is acceptable to read or send a text message on a mobile device is when you are parked safely with the engine switched off.

"No message is important enough to risk your own or other road users' lives – a momentary distraction, created by reading or sending a message, could easily result in a crash.

"It is not clear whether drivers are unaware of what the law says or whether they are simply ignoring it. Either way, they must understand the very real dangers of using a mobile phone, both for calls or messaging, when at the wheel of a car.

"Whilst it is understandable young drivers like to be 'connected', it is especially disappointing that they are the group most likely to put themselves and others at risk through being addicted to these devices."

Fashionable sense with Mokka SUV

Commercial feature

Small Crossovers should be fun and fashionable but that doesn't mean they can't also be versatile, capable and practical too. Like Vauxhall's little Mokka? Perhaps.

Mokka buyers are people likely to be enthusiasts for life rather than for cars. So they may not care that this car isn't quite as sharp and wieldy as a rival Nissan Juke, nor does it have the 'big SUV' polish of a comparable Skoda Yeti. Instead, there's a potentially pleasing compromise between the two.

Under the bonnet, there are three main engine options, the most affordable, as ever, being the least desirable of the trio, the 2WD-only 115PS petrol 1.6-litre variant which, with only 155Nm of torque, needs to be rowed along a little with the gear lever – a stick that only offers you five speeds.

A better bet for petrol people is the Mokka we tried, the 140PS 1.4-litre turbo. Sixty is just 9.4s away on route to 118mph, so it's usefully more rapid, and there's a healthier 200Nm of torque.

Despite all this and the optional inclusion of 4WD, the provision of a 6-speed gearbox and more modern mechanicals mean that this pokier 1.4 is actually cheaper to run than the feebler 1.6.

The most practical engine choice though is the one most buyers will probably select, the 130PS 1.6-litre CDTi diesel capable of a top speed of around 119mph and rest to sixty in around 10s.

You get all the main mechanical choices with this unit – so you can specify your car with 6-speed manual or automatic transmission and with or without 4WD.

Perhaps more importantly, you get a lot more pulling power – 300Nm in all. Every Mokka is theoretically capable of towing a braked trailer of up to 1200kg in weight, but this diesel variant is the only one that'll really take such a task in its stride.

This Mokka sets its own course amongst small Crossovers. Though supermini-based, like a Nissan Juke, it's nearly as big inside as a family hatch-style Crossover like Nissan's Qashqai. But whatever your thoughts about this car's size, you'll probably agree that the way this Mokka looks goes a long way towards selling it. Cute and individualistic without being wilfully outlandish in the manner of a rival Nissan Juke.

Not too long ago, it was hard to think of a more conventional brand than Vauxhall. But that was then. Here's how the company is thinking now: looks a lot more appealing doesn't it?

True, this isn't the sharpest handling car of its kind but its as good as it needs to be. Nor is it as affordable as some might expect – but that's only an issue if your comparison is with something smaller, much less well equipped and probably more feebly powered.

Look clearly at what you actually get for what you actually pay and the Mokka makes fashionable sense. With styling and size almost perfectly pitched, it's practical, well equipped, affordable to run and, in 4x4 form, seasonally capable too. A car with an appeal that builds as your interest in it grows. The kind of car Vauxhall needs to make.

Toyota is proud to be celebrating 50 years in UK market

In 1965 Toyota made a modest entry into the UK car market, its arrival marked by a small four-car stand at that year's motor show. Today, Toyota has not only sold almost three million vehicles in Britain, it builds them here, too.

Although a great deal has changed, there remains a constant theme in Toyota's business that is as true today as it was 50 years ago, as Paul Van der Burgh, Toyota (GB) President and Managing Director, explained: "Toyota entered the UK market with the aim of providing better cars and better service, even if those weren't the words used back them. But ever since, Toyota has stood out for giving the customer something better – better equipment, better reliability and better service."

Pride and Clark was the original UK importer and distributor, a South London family firm that launched its enterprise after John Pride travelled to the Far East to see the developing Japanese car industry for himself. His faith in Toyota was shared by a handful of car retailers who set up the first Toyota showrooms, at first with just a single model line – Corona – to offer their customers.

Business prospered as the range of vehicles grew, not least with introduction of the first Corolla in 1966. The name Toyota (GB) Ltd was adopted in 1967 and by 1980 200,000 cars had been sold, securing its position as a leading player in Britain's car market.

Nine years later Toyota announced the UK as the location for a European manufacturing centre. Toyota Manufacturing UK's Burnaston car plant in Derbyshire and Deeside engine factory in North Wales came on stream in 1992 and have benefited from more than £2 billion investment in technology, skills and jobs.

They continue to provide valuable opportunities for more than 200 supplier businesses.

Foundation

TMUK also has the distinction of being the Toyota's first hybrid vehicle manufacturing centre in Europe, building Auris Hybrid models since 2010.

Tony Walker, TMUK deputy managing director, said: "All the work we have done so far has created a solid foundation for the future.

"The next exciting step for TMUK is to develop our skills ready for the adoption of TNGA – Toyota New Global Architecture. It's not just about new products, it's a new approach to making them. We have plenty of work ahead of us to be ready to adopt the new way of working by the end of the decade, but I strongly believe that, as the last 25 years have shown, we will be ready."

In its 50th year in the UK, Toyota has already launched new Avensis and Auris models – all built at Burnaston.

Later this year it will also begin marketing the first of its Mirai hydrogen fuel cell vehicles here, opening a new chapter in zero emissions driving with technology the drivers of those first Corona saloons could never have imagined.

While Toyota's focus is on the future and the development of ever-better cars, it honours the achievements of some its influential models of the past in a heritage fleet, maintained by Toyota (GB).

The classic line-up includes an original Corona saloon, the famous Corolla AE86 that helped inspire today's GT86 coupe, a first-generation RAV4 and one of the earliest British-built models, a 1992-vintage Carina E.

Toyota is a big player in British car manufacturing. All the Avensis models and all the Auris hatchbacks and wagons are made at the Burnaston plant in Derbyshire.

A detailed search for the oldest UK-registered Toyota has come up with two original Corona saloons, still on the road and nearing 50 years old.

We've raced and rallied with great success, including BTCC championships with both Corolla and Carina.

Volvo XC90 qualifies for grant

Volvo's first petrol plug-in hybrid, the XC90 T8 Twin Engine, has qualified for the UK Plug-in Car Grant (PICG) scheme from the Office of Low Emission Vehicles (OLEV).

The Swedish firm's new XC90 T8 Twin Engine is now available with an on-road price of £54,955 (including PICG).

The XC90 is the first car to be built on Volvo's first in-house designed and built platform, and powered by Volvo's new Drive-E powertrains. With a combined output of 407hp, this seven-seat SUV emits just 49g/km of CO2, at the same time being able to go from zero to 60mph in 5.3 seconds.

Neatly

The car's platform is designed to incorporate the hybrid hardware without encroaching on interior space, with the necessary battery pack being neatly concealed within the centre console. The Drive-E powertrain in the XC90 utilises both a 320hp petrol engine and 87hp electric motor.

The Plug-in Car Grant (PICG) has been designed to encourage manufacturers to decrease the level of outputted CO2 exhaust emissions.

To achieve this, hybrid vehicles must emit less than 75g/km, a minimal travelling range of 10 miles and must reach a speed of at least 60mph.

Companies choosing the XC90 T8 Twin Engine can benefit by writing down as much as 100 per cent of the cost against their income tax liability. A real incentive.

Drivers who choose the XC90 T8 Momentum, for example, pay as little as £99.83 BIK a month (40 per cent tax payer) whilst enjoying a full 7-seat SUV with 407hp.

L200 still king of the pick-ups

By John Griffiths

It was a surprise when Mitsubishi chose to launch its latest vehicle at one of Europe's top test facilities: putting it through its paces in a series of extreme challenges normally used to spot potential problems before the car goes on sale.

Motoring writers were even treated to a quick ride around the wet handling track with Scottish rally champion Euan Thorburn at the wheel.

Ah, you might think, this is obviously a new version of Mitsubishi's legendary high performance Evo. But you'd be wrong – slipping, sliding and drifting around the track at MIRA's Nuneaton base was the company's top-selling pick-up. And this is anything but a rally car – it's a workhorse weighing nearly three tonnes.

It was part of a session to show how the new L200's four wheel drive and electronic systems transform handling, roadholding and safety even in the most difficult conditions.

This is the fifth generation of the big truck (consistently top of its class) and it is new from the ground up as Mitsubishi are determined to ensure one of its most important models stays ahead of the competition.

It has a stronger, stiffer chassis and a new engine which is more powerful yet it also offers significantly better fuel economy and lower emissions. Its four wheel drive system has been improved, it can carry more cargo and has a revised suspension system designed to give driver and passengers and more comfortable ride in its much improved cabin.

The L200 is uncompromisingly a working vehicle, popular with farmers, foresters, builders and the like but in its earlier forms it essentially established a new class of vehicle. The 'double cab' concept, which inspired plenty of imitators, was a vehicle designed for hard work during the week but with five seats and enough creature comforts to become family transport at weekends.

That was great for the small businessman as it potentially saved the cost of a second family car, and also made it popular among those with outdoor leisure interests, and even a few who liked the rough, tough image.

Terrain

As an all-rounder it has few peers. It can transport five people over the roughest terrain, carry up to a tonne in its load bay and pull a trailer with over three tonnes of cargo.

Prices start from £19,749 to £25,199 (excluding VAT) for the auto version of the flagship 'Barbarian', equipped to executive car standards with the likes of leather upholstery, alloy wheels and satellite navigation.

The basis of the new L200 is the stiffer chassis, with benefits for load carrying and safety. The new, 2,442cc turbo diesel engine is more powerful than its 136bhp predecessor, and whether you have the new 151 or 178bhp version they're the leanest and cleanest in class.

On the road, the new engine performs strongly, and is impressively quick by pick-up standards. It's mated to a new six-speed gear box which means smoother acceleration and quieter cruising.

Bearing in mind its workhorse role, you will be aware of the heavy duty suspension when lightly loaded but a revised system of leaf springs, dampers and anti-roll bars has significantly reduced the old rock 'n'roll experience.

The gearbox has a shorter, slicker action than its predecessor and it has given the L200 another advantage off-road, enabling the low ratio set of cogs to have an even lower first gear so it will climb steep and slippery slopes at tickover revs, aiding traction. The four wheel drive system has changed with a 40/60 per cent split of torque between front and rear axles, instead of 50/50, to provide more traction when you have a trailer coupled up. The vehicle's electronic stability programme also recognises when you're towing, and can reduce torque or brake individual wheels on the pick-up to make sure its trailer remains stable too.

Drivers can switch from rear wheel drive to four wheel on the move at speeds of up to 62mph, useful if you encounter wet and slippery conditions. Two wheel drive saves fuel, but in slippery conditions a lightly-loaded pick-up can become tail happy on bends or islands: the combination of four wheel drive and stability control counteracts that.

Remarkably, it's still the only pick-up able to tow on the road in four wheel drive. For extreme surfaces you can lock the central differential, but even then the electronics will brake any spinning wheel. That's comforting because the new L200 is not only nippy on the road, it's actually quite agile, too.

The rear seats have enough head and leg room to accommodate a six-footer. The interior has softer, higher quality surfaces, with features such as air conditioning, power windows and mirrorsand a multi-speaker audio system with Bluetooth from the entry-level 4Life upwards. The safety package includes seven airbags, cruise control with speed limiter, ABS and brake force distribution.

The L200 was Mitsubishi's biggest seller in the UK last year, even though that was the fourth generation model and some seven years old. That augers well for the new and much-improved model. It's stronger, safer, tougher, even better off road and a highly competent tow vehicle, and in terms of economy it's the class-leader.

2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree.

Sinclair grabs hat-trick for Villa

New-boy Jordan Amavi and Scott Sinclair

Notts Forest 3 Villa 3

WINGER Scott Sinclair was at his sparkling best for Villa with a hat-trick in their pre-season friendly at Nottingham Forest.

Sinclair's treble put the claret and blues in control, after Forest striker Dexter Blackstock broke the deadlock inside the first 30 seconds.

There was a glut of late goals that went against the visitors, with strikes from captain Henri Lansbury and Kelvin Wilson snaring a draw. Jose Angel Crespo and Jordan Ayew were handed their first starts for Villa, while latest signing Jordan Veretout was among the substitutes.

Carlos Sanchez was also back into the fold, after an extended break due to his involvement with Colombia in the Copa America. Striker Rudy Gestede was left out of the match-day squad, having only completed his move from Blackburn Rovers on Friday afternoon.

Villa had barely drawn breath before Blackstockslotted under goalkeeper Mark Bunn. Villa equalised in the 21st minute and took the lead on 52 minutes.

The arrival from Manchester City then completed his hat-trick just after the hour mark.

But Villa were found all at sea when Lansbury twisted and turned on the edge of the box, before slotting past Bunn with a neat finish with 10 minutes to go.

Then Wilson was on hand to level the scores with a simple finish in the final seconds.

Injury will keep Batth out for start of season

WOLVES captain Danny Batth will miss the start of the season through injury, it has been confirmed.

The 24-year-old is still out with the stress fracture to his left foot that forced him to miss the final two games of last season.

Batth will begin full training two days after Wolves open their league campaign against Blackburn Rovers at Ewood Park on August 8.

It is likely he won't be back in first-team action during the opening weeks of the season.

Wolves boss Kenny Jackett said of Batth's injury latest: "He's doing well. His return to full training will be the Monday after the Blackburn game.

"We're still going to have to be careful with it but he'll be in full training then."

Batth's absence hands an opportunity for someone else to cement a position at centre-half alongside Richard Stearman.

Ethan Ebanks-Landell covered for Batth during those closing 2014/15 matches against Wigan Athletic and Millwall.

But with Scott Golbourne back to full fitness, Kortney Hause becomes an option in his natural position of centre-half.

Dominic Iorfa has also featured in central defence during pre-season, and with Kenny Jackett impressed with right-back Matt Doherty's performances Iorfa could be moved inside.

Jackett said he felt the defensive positions were the strongest in the Wolves squad.

He added: "It's an opportunity for others to come in and stake a claim."

Optimism for new season at Saddlers

Luton 0 Walsall 1

WITH just five days until the competitive action gets under way, Walsall fans can look forward to the new season with a keen sense of optimism and intrigue.

Oldham will be the visitors to the Banks's Stadium this weekend as two of League One's perennial sides look to kick start their 2015/16 campaigns with a win.

But which players and in what system the Saddlers will line up for that opening clash remains a mystery.

Boss Dean Smith has kept everyone guessing throughout all of pre-season – refusing, at any point, to name is his best XI.

The biggest talking point from this latest selection was that Walsall lined up in a 3-5-2 formation for the second game in a row.

The system, used to good affect against Premier League Albion last week, saw Rico Henry and Jason Demetriou continue to operate as wing-backs.

Partner

Up front, Smith again opted to field two strikers with Jordan Cook given the chance to partner Tom Bradshaw.

While at centre-back Paul Downing and the emerging Matt Preston were joined by Spanish trialist Adrian Pazo.

Smith has already confirmed Walsall will be more attacking and entertaining this year, and that intent was on show early against the Hatters who found themselves behind within six minutes.

Bradshaw managed to out-fox the Luton offside trap following a long ball over the top.

Last season's top scorer then showed all his striking instincts to cut inside the last defender and fire past a helpless Mark Tyler from eight yards.

John Still's Hatters, who are among the bookies' favourites to win promotion from League Two, should have pulled level immediately.

Danny Green did well to get to the byline and cut the ball back to the onrushing Cameron McGeehan. But despite having the goal at his mercy, the midfielder side footed over the bar when it was easier to score. The game was missing the competitive edge seen in the friendlies against Albion and Villa. And it wasn't until the stroke of half-time until the Hatters truly threatened again.

Striker Jordan Cook battles to get an attempt on goal while, right, centre-back Paul Downing clears

Striker Paul Benson looked to place a whipped Green cross into the corner but Neil Etheridge was on hand to produce a sprawling save and push the ball to safety.

The second half started with the Saddlers once again on the front foot and Adam Chambers, Cook and Demetriou all went close with long-range efforts. On the hour, Demetriou twisted and turned his way into the box before cutting the ball back to Kieron Morris who saw a fierce strike beaten away by Tyler.

And after substitute Andy Taylor had galloped down the left flank to force a corner, Chambers saw a half-volley from the resultant kick cleared off the line.

While there were plenty of positives, Smith will be concerned by the team's inability to double their lead while they were on top.

New coach can't wait to get started at Molineux

JERRY GILL admits he can't wait to get started after being appointed Wolves under-18 boss.

The 44-year-old former Birmingham City midfielder replaces Chris Iwelumo, who stepped down on last week, only six days after being appointed.

Iwelumo said he was unable to meet the demands of the role.

Gill had been among several candidates to reach the final stages of the selection process and has now agreed to take the job following Iwelumo's sudden change of heart.

"I'm delighted," he said. "It's obviously a long interview process which is very thorough and I really enjoyed it.

"It was in depth. I'm absolutely delighted and can't wait to get started.

"I'm really passionate about developing players within the team and I'm looking forward to doing that on the training ground."

Gill, who had been coaching at Norwich, insists he never had any qualms about taking the job despite initially missing out.

"Not at all," he said. "This was a job I wanted from the outset and I was in the process of taking another job at another club.

"This is the one I wanted from the outset, something I wanted to do. It is something I am comfortable with. I like to think that during my session I impressed and during the interview.

"I can't wait to get started. Chris got the job on merit, obviously and I fully respect that.

"But he has been very honest in his parting of the club at an early stage and I want to wish him all the best as well."

Pulis hopes signings will be role models

TONY PULIS believes he has signed a pair of strong role models in James Chester and Rickie Lambert.

The duo became the Baggies' second and third signings of the summer last week.

Lambert, 33, has more than 15 years' experience as a professional having worked his way up from non-league and Pulis hopes his attitude will rub off on some of the Baggies' young stars, including Saido Berahino.

"He is a great lad and we have got in Saido a wonderful young talent," said the head coach. "You are just hoping that little bit of experience, the way he (Lambert) conducts himself, the way he works, the way he does things will rub off on Saido as well."

Albion try deal on Bluebirds goalkeeper

ALBION remain hopeful of striking a deal for Cardiff City goalkeeper David Marshall in the coming days.

Tony Pulis is eager to add another goalkeeper to his squad and the 30-year-old Scotland international is now his No.1 target after attempts to prise Wayne Hennessey away from Crystal Palace came to nothing.

Negotiations with the Welsh club are ongoing, though – contrary to some reports – a fee is yet to be agreed.

Marshall took part in an open training session in Cardiff this week but is understood to be keen on a move back to the Premier League.

It is thought the Bluebirds will demand around £6million for a player regarded as one of the best in the Championship.

Ex-stars honour Tunisia victims

Neil Baldwin and the players observe the silence

FORMER Walsall stars took on the players of football favourite Neil Baldwin for a match in memory of three Saddlers fans killed in the Tunisian massacre.

The match, organised through the Walsall Supporters Trust, was held at Pelsall Villa with the money raised going towards a fund set up in memory of Joel Richards.

The game was organised in honour of 19-year-old Joel, of Wednesbury, his uncle and Sandwell Council worker Adrian Evans, 49, of Bilston and grandfather Patrick Evans, 78, of Wednesbury who were gunned down on the beach in the horrific terror attack. Joel, his uncle and grandfather lost their lives in the attack in the coastal city of Sousse when the attack took place on June 26. Joel's mother Suzanne and his brother Owen, who was the only one of the four holidaymakers to survive, attended the game.

Former players, including Mark Taylor and Andy Reece joined the Walsall Legends team to take on Neil Baldwin FC. The game finished 6-3 to the Walsall Legends.

A minute's silence was held before kick-off and those who also attended were also give wristbands which read 'Keep Calm and Smile Like Joel' and 'Together We Achieve More'.

Walsall FC player Amadou Bakayoko was among those showing his support.

He said: "I'm here to support the family and see how the guys play and to enjoy the game."

Paddock has his mind on keeping hold of title belt

MIDLANDS title rivals Luke Paddock and Andy Keates saddled up for their battle for the belt with a trip to fight venue Walsall Football Club this week, writes Craig Birch.

The duo were paraded on the pitch at the Banks's Stadium, during half-time of Walsall's 2-0 pre-season friendly defeat to Albion.

And area light welterweight champion Paddock, making the first defence of his crown, thinks it will be a ball when the two touch gloves on Friday September 4.

He said: "It's going to be quality, to fight in my home-town is good enough but to fight at my football club is something else.

"This is not just for me, this is for the fans, so I hope everyone on the night just comes along and enjoys the show."

'Cool Hand' and his opponent renew rivalries from their amateur exploits, where Keates had the edge with three wins to Paddock's two in bouts between the pair.

Paddock counters by pointing out he closed him out unanimously on points in one contest, while Keates only ever nudged home by majority or split decision.

And the 23-year-old believes he's adapted to life in the paid ranks far better by taking the area strap that Keates, who has lost twice, so clearly covets.

Paddock has clocked up 12 wins on an unblemished pro record and is determined it won't be unlucky 13 for him.

He added:"I'll be all business on the night and he won't have to come looking for me."

Tickets are £30 standard and £40 ringside by call 07881 376 512.

Wolves have Bright spot to edge win

Doncaster 3 Wolves 4

WOLVES ended their six-match friendly campaign by edging a seven-goal thriller at The Keepmoat.

Days after an equally entertaining derby draw at a raucous Molineux, this was a pretty satisfying way in which to sign off before the serious stuff begins at Blackburn on Saturday.

Let's get the negatives out the way first. Some shoddy defending led to Doncaster scoring two goals from corners – with centre halves Richard Stearman and Kortney Hause culpable – a week after Shrewsbury's goal in the 1-1 draw at Greenhous Meadow came from the same source.

Doncaster's third goal was one for the goalkeeper blunders reel, with Aaron McCarey taking liberties with a back-pass and letting Nathan Tyson in to score.

And Jack Price picked up an ankle knock late on – Wolves' first injury sustained during a match this pre-season, but hopefully not a serious one.

Positive

On the flip side, Wolves looked sharp in possession and brisk on the counter-attack.

League One side Doncaster had hosted Nottingham Forest, Middlesbrough and Sunderland before Saturday, and registered scores of 1-1, 0-0 and 2-0, so a walkover was unlikely.

Wolves, after their second successive slow start, took the game to Paul Dickov's side and were rewarded with four goals.

The pacy Jordan Graham, given an opportunity to impress after being named in Kenny Jackett's first XI for the first time this pre-season, stretched the play down the left and was lively, while Conor Coady excelled again with an all-action midfield display.

Wolves' midfield in the first half was far more balanced than the one selected to try and nullify Villa, with Graham and James Henry complementing Nouha Dicko and Benik Afobe.Former Walsall defender Andy Butler nodded Doncaster in front but Wolves responded within two minutes when Afobe tapped home from Scott Golbourne's inswinging delivery.

Two more goals followed in the next 15 minutes with Wolves in their most purple patch of pre-season. Dicko's right wing cross dropped perfectly to Graham who couldn't miss, and then Hause glanced in another Golbourne corner – perhaps Bakary Sako's set-piece replacement has been discovered, if not his left-wing successor – to make it 3-1.

Wolves let their lead slip either side of the break – Rob Jones and Tyson taking advantage of those defensive lapses. But, with Jackett's stinging criticism of a lack of hunger and desire at Shrewsbury a week earlier perhaps still in their minds, the players yet again showed heart by regaining the momentum.

This was a different XI by now, with the second string sent on at half time. Delightful midfielder Connor Ronan again impressed with some irresistible touches and passes, Rajiv Van La Parra put in his best pre-season performance up front, and Matt Doherty ventured forward to great effect as he continued his good summer form.

But then there was Bright Enobakhare scoring a sensational winner.

In the action Lee Evans of Wolves and Harry Middleton of Doncaster Rovers during the friendly

Ex-Wolves star Robbie reaches end of the road

FORMER Wolves winger Robbie Dennison has completed his epic 565-mile charity cycle ride along the west coast of Ireland.

Dennison and others undertook the gruelling challenge to raise money for Diabetes UK.

And over the weekend the popular Northern Irishman smashed his £1,000 fundraising target.

Dennison has now upped the total to £1,500 with Wolves fans, friends and well-wishers showing great support for him completing the exhausting endurance test.

The 52-year-old said: "It's been the most mentally challenging thing I've ever done but the sense of achievement within the group is fantastic."

The Birmingham Irish Cycle Appeal is an annual bike ride which sees a team of around 20 tackle an ambitious cycling challenge, with previous rides taking place in America and Cyprus.

Hundreds of pounds were donated to Dennison's fundraising pot over the weekend, including around £300 on Saturday to pass the £1,000 barrier as news came through that the ex-Wolves star had completed the challenge.

Charles Ross, editor of Wolves fanzine A Load Of Bull, was part of Dennison's back-up team.

He paid tribute to the former left-winger, who scored 49 goals in 353 Wolves games, and said Dennison greatly appreciated the support he was receiving.

"Robbie was overwhelmed by the generosity of Wolves fans when he got a text at 3.45pm on Saturday telling him the news (of reaching £1,000) as he was recovering the day after the ride."Visit www.justgiving.com/Robbie-Dennison.

Jason's goal promise to supporters

FULL-BACK Jason Demetriou has promised Walsall fans he will get among the goals this season.

The 27-year-old, a summer capture from Cypriot outfit Anorthosis Famagusta, has impressed throughout pre-season with his attacking play.

And now the defender has set himself a double figure target.

"I've always backed myself to get assists wherever I've played," he said.

"I should be getting a minimum of five in a season and there is no reason why I can't get into double figures.

"It's a big part of my game getting forward and delivering crosses. And with the forward players we have got there is no reason why they shouldn't be finishing them off."

Hayes put on good show for last friendly

Heath Hayes 3 Ellesmere 1

HEATH Hayes and Ellesmere played out a spicy last friendly game before the season starts.

Hayes started the game well with Dan Scragg hitting the bar and Joe Pickering hitting the post before Scragg found the net after good work on the left wing by Pickering.

Ellesmere equalised on 30 mins when Hayes failed to clear a corner.

The second half saw Ellesmere coming more into the game which was played more like a cup final than a friendly.

Hayes got on top again in the later exchanges and scored two good goals from Pickering and substitute Hartsorne

A big improvement in view of the seasons opener on Saturday at home to Coventry Copsewood.

Wolves get Le Fondre on loan deal

WOLVES have signed Cardiff City striker Adam Le Fondre on loan – and Liverpool winger Sheyi Ojo is being lined up to follow him in a double swoop.

Prolific goalscorer Le Fondre joined on a season-long deal. Wolves also have the option to buy the player at the end of the season.

Reds youngster Ojo, 18, could also join although a loan deal has not yet been finalised.

Head coach Kenny Jackett said of Le Fondre: "I think he's a very good addition for us.

"In terms of his qualities, both his goalscoring record and his football are at a very high level and we do need at least another centre forward to make sure we're strong enough.

"His goalscoring record is there for everybody to see. He has an appreciation of work rate and linking the play that he perhaps didn't have when he was a younger man."

Recruitment chief Kevin Thelwell added: "We have been chasing him for a long time and are delighted that he is now a Wolves player."

Le Fondre made his name at Rotherham where he scored 24 goals in League Two in 2010/11 to earn a move to Reading.

He notched 16 goals in the Championship and followed that with 14 in the Premier League, although it wasn't enough to save the Royals from relegation.

The 28-year-old moved to Cardiff last summer, but has struggled to settle with the Welsh club. He was loaned to fellow Championship outfit Bolton and scored eight in 16 league starts. Teenager Ojo scored the winner for Liverpool in their 2-1 friendly win over Swindon."

Golfer Morgan is among top level in open contest

A YOUNG golfer from Beau Desert near Cannock has secured a top 10 finish at the English Girls' Under-14 Open Amateur Championships in Norfolk.

Morgan Leah Thomas finished eighth on the leader board at the prestigious annual competition, which took place over three days at Royal Cromer Golf Club.

Thomas made a flying start, carding a one over par 75 on the first day in a round which included five birdies.

A more disappointing 85 followed on day two but she managed to make the cut despite this.

And she rebounded on the final day with a solid 80, which included an eagle on the 10th hole, to ensure a lofty final position.

Lily May Humphreys of the Channels Golf Club in Chelmsford won the tournament.

In the English Girls' Under-18 Championships at Sheringham, Hagley Golf & Country Club's Aimee Field came tied 12th.

Fellow Hagley Golfer Ciara Kelly finished six shots further down the leaderboard, coming tied 21st overall.

Squad is in good shape – Morgan

Football

WOLVES chairman Steve Morgan believes the team is in 'as good a shape as anybody' with the long-awaited start of the Championship season just days away.

And Morgan has reiterated his desire to complete the £40million redevelopment of Molineux.

The 62-year-old has been at Wolves for eight years now since taking over from the late Sir Jack Hayward.

He has overseen a rollercoaster period in the club's long history, with Wolves promoted to the Premier League in 2009 and then relegated to the Championship in 2012 and then League One in 2013. With the club on the rise and aiming once again for the Premier League, Morgan has given a rare interview – and confirmed his intentions to remain at the club.

"Sir Jack said when he was alive that I'd had a heart transplant to Wolverhampton and I think it's a bit more than a heart transplant – it's a whole body transplant," Morgan said.

"So that's what Wolverhampton's become to mean to me."

This summer Wolves have so far spent around £2.5m bringing in midfielders Jed Wallace from Portsmouth and Conor Coady from Huddersfield.

Youngster Sylvain Deslandes has also joined from Caen but is expected to be in the under-21 squad this season.

Striker Adam Le Fondre has joined on loan from Cardiff and Liverpool winger Sheyi Ojo is expected to follow this week on a temporary deal.

And Morgan said he felt the squad was in good shape ahead of the 2015/16 Championship campaign, for which Wolves are one of the favourites for promotion.

"I do feel we're in as good a shape as anybody."

PITMEN DRAW BAGS TROPHY

Stafford Rangers 2 Hednesford 2

HEDNESFORD TOWN claimed the Mike Hughes Memorial Trophy with a 4-2 aggregate victory.

The cup came courtesy of an entertaining draw with Stafford Rangers at Marston Road.

The Pitmen were boosted by the return to their ranks of midfielder Tom Thorley after his release from AFC Telford United and they started the game very much on the front foot with striker Nathan Modest heading wide at the back post in the fourth minute.

Five minutes later, Town appealed for a penalty when Marvin Robinson went down in the box but nothing was given.

At the other end, Ben Haseley almost got on the end of a through ball after 21 minutes only for Town's Dave Parton to deny him.

Four minutes later Hednesford took the lead as John Disney fired home from inside the box after being set-up by Paul Ennis.

Mercy

It should have been 2-0 10 minutes before the break only for loanee Chris Spencer to fire over while Haseley headed wide with the goal at his mercy moments later.

In the second period, Stafford came out with renewed vigour and eventually equalised in the 71st minute when Christian Dacres swept home at the back post.

The scores were level for just three minutes before Town's Adam Thomas was released and he fired home to make it 2-1.

Just as it looked as if Hednesford would make it a double over their rivals Dacres headed home from a tight angle to level the scores with the last touch of the game.

Hednesford now head into their first league of the season on Saturday at home against Stalybridge Celtic.

Stafford Rangers: Whitehouse, Melbourne, Morris, Reid, Daniel, Miles, Craddock, McNaught, Wellecomme, Haseley, Edmunds.

Hednesford Town: Parton, Disney, Tilt, Bailey, Williams T, Thorley, Ennis, Spencer, Robinson, Modest, Todd.

Attendance: 436

U-14s hockey side are winners

The winners of the Chase Cup are Cannock Ladies Hockey Under-14s team

THE future is looking bright for Cannock Ladies Hockey Club with their under-14s hockey team who are on a high and celebrating winning The Chase Cup.

Recently the youngsters played in the competition at Chase Park and came out triumphant.

They linked together well working as a team in all of the four matches they need to win get the trophy and this they duly did.

The first match which was against Stourport was a closely fought contest with Cannock eventually coming out on top by one goal and wining the game 4-3.

The team's next match found them up against Beeston.

Their opponents are always a strong team, but Cannock played well and easily won the match with the score ending with a shutout at 3-0.

This was followed by two good wins against Bowden, who they went on to beat 3-1 and the with an even more decisive score they took out Bowden vixens, 6 -1 which resulted in a clear win for the local girls which meant they took away the trophy.

Top goalscorer was Lily Walker with Hannah Hampton, Rianne Martin, Jasmine Rainer, Rachel Drayton Chana and Kat Sheldon also getting on the score board.

The girls are now hoping for they will go on to continued selection to County and Midlands teams.

Boss wants support for fresh start

HEDNESFORD TOWN boss Rob Smith has urged supporters to get behind a 'fresh start' as the club get their National League North season under way with a host of new faces.

The Pitmen begin their third season back in Conference Football at Keys Park, with only three members of last season's squad retained ahead of 2015/16.

The boss said: "It's been a busy summer!

"I've been involved in the rebuild every day.

"We've had a host of faces in over the summer and it's given us an opportunity to have a real look at everyone we have been interested in.

"The league kick-off on Saturday and hopefully as the week progresses we're looking at having a settled side.

"There are still opportunities for players to perform tonight (against Stafford Rangers) and stake a claim for their spots. It's why we've had lads come and go.

"Maybe they haven't been exactly what we have hoped or it wasn't the right fit."

Luke Benbow, Kyle Morrison and Josh Craddock were all signed earlier in the summer and have since moved on to other clubs.

But Smith insists a repeat of the previous two years will be a fine effort.

"Top half will have been a very successful season," he said.

"We're a lower-half budget in this division. The other day we picked up the paper to have a quick look at the teams and we put it back down again – it was terrifying!"

Jake Heath, Nathan Modest and Sean Williams have agreed deals at Keys Park.

Benbow gets signed up by Rushall club

RUSHALL OLYMPIC have completed the signing of prolific forward Luke Benbow from Hednesford Town.

The 23-year-old striker only moved to Keys Park at the beginning of the summer after leaving Stourbridge, where he scored more than 50 goals across three seasons.

But his stay with the Pitmen was a short one after struggling with injuries over the summer.

Stafford Rangers were due to welcome Hednesford in the second-leg of the Mike Hughes Memorial Shield. The visiting National League North outfit hold a 2-0 advantage from the first-leg.
